GAUNTLET

Mike,

I really thought you were weird at the beginning of the year, but my opinion changed. You're really a great guy.

Hope to see ya next year and remember the zoo in Chemistry.

Have a great summer.
See ya.

Louise "70"

P.S.

I can never write, so if it sounds wierd to don't worry about it. Also remember the Prom and learn to drive faster. Only Kidding about the last.

A single voice, faint, yet irrepressible is heard
Above the roar of the crowd
While they cheer for . . .

One athlete whose courage stands separated
From the strength of the team effort
Not only on the field but in the classroom where . . .

One student in a massive class claims
His own unique academic identity
During school and after school serving as . . .

A club member who retains his own ideals
As he works for those of the group.
He establishes them as school tradition

Crossland

CHS Model School For Prince Georges County

The history of Crossland Senior High School is one of continuous expansion and advancement. Situated on 32 acres in Camp Springs, Maryland, Crossland was open for the first time in 1963. Academic and business students entered an air-conditioned building complete with spacious classrooms containing modern business equipment and audio-visual materials. A science wing with well-equipped laboratories for classrooms, two language laboratories, and a driving simulator room were other facilities provided for Crossland Cavaliers.

The school year 1966-67 brought another innovation at Crossland — the addition of a 22-room vocational wing. Offering one of the finest Vocational Technical Training Programs in the state, Crossland proudly passed another milestone in June 1969 when the first class of vocational students received their diplomas.

Further expansion in the size of Crossland's student body necessitated the construction of two temporary buildings in the 1968-69 school year.

Demonstrating concern in the preparation of each Cavalier to live in the world of today, Crossland has and will continue to provide modern educational facilities for all of its students.

ACTIVITIES

All Cavaliers striving to do
A million things with never enough time —
Getting props for a play,
Slaving for weeks on a Homecoming float,
Selling candy door to door,
Or shakers at the gate.
Getting hoarse at a pep rally,
Coming home voiceless after a game.
Perching on a scaffolding to put that
Last balloon in place.
Making posters till three;
College boards the next morning at eight.
Girls in command of the pigskin
Washing confetti out of long hair.
Choosing Miss Crossland,
Finding a band for the dance.
Tears shed at victory,
Again at defeat.
And amidst it all —
A Cavalier striving to do . . .

Victory dance

Cavaliers Kick-Off With Victory Dance

Crossland's first official '68-'69 activity proved to be a foreshadowing of all future events — Great!!! The Victory Dance, sponsored by the Seniors, had been in the planning stages since summer, and lavish decorations, constructed by enthusiastic and artistic students, greeted old and new Cavaliers on September 14 as they celebrated the first football victory of the year. Spectators packed into brown paper stadiums viewed the events of the evening from the kick-off at 8:00 p.m. to the final trash-empty at 11:00 p.m. plus. The La Monts provided the background music for Cavaliers to welcome new Sophomores and admire summer tans of friends not seen since June. Each Cavalier was extended the warm "Hi!" so characteristic of Crossland, and everyone left with the relieved assurance that they could rest easy, for Crossland was again in good hands and "all systems were Go!"

CHS Spirit Epidemic Claims Many Victims

SPIRIT is more than a muffled roar rising from the bleachers. It is unity in endeavor, singleness of purpose, and interest in accomplishment. SPIRIT is caring, showing up, midnight study. It is a feeling, an outlook on life. SPIRIT is everyday, everywhere. True, it is victory, but it is also rising after defeat. SPIRIT is youth, enthusiasm, contemplation, doubt, hope. It is doing; it is a handshake; it is hard work; it is contagious; it is pride.

SPIRIT is . . . Crossland, and Crossland is #1.

Homecoming

Hornets Lose Sting

As CHS Scores Again

Early on the morning of October 26, while Camp Springs slept, tired but enthusiastic Cavaliers were adding the last coats of paint to make their floats parade-worthy or securing balloons to the ceiling of the Multi-Purpose room in preparation for the dance that evening. All thoughts of clean-up the following day or that unstudied-for exam on Monday vanished as curler-clad girls and sleepy-eyed guys concentrated on making Crossland's third annual Homecoming, "Crossland Scores Again!!!," most successful and unique.

Crossland's Cavalier Players, kicked off the Homecoming weekend with a special presentation of "Teahouse of the August Moon" on Friday evening, October 25. Another newly established tradition was the Alumni Tea given on Saturday morning by the Class of '69 to provide Alumni with an informal class reunion.

The tea was followed by a rush to the stadium to find good seats for the game between Crossland and Surrattsville. The band, majorettes, pom-pon girls, and cheerleaders were assembled on the field, waiting for the team. As the team ran onto the field, the crowd rose, the familiar strains of the Fight Song arousing the never-ending Cavalier Spirit.

Crossland's gallant Cavalier added to the festivities by bringing with him the "BIG BOX." Spirit spread throughout the crowd as each person entering the home bleachers was presented with a bag of confetti and the words to Crossland's Alma Mater and Fight Song; compliments of the Cavalier and the "BIG BOX."

The highlight of the half-time activities was the presentation of the 1969 Homecoming Court and Queen. Sophomore Princesses Gail Roy and Sandra Willsie were introduced and escorted onto the field followed by Junior Princesses Pam MacDonald and Vickie Willsie. Seniors Gwen Grossmiller, Sue McFarland, Kate McClain, Ginny Walsh, and Judy Williams nervously awaited the decision. Football Captains Rick Bailey and Nick Mona, after much deliberation, crowned Kate McClain 1969 Homecoming Queen and presented her with a bouquet of roses. She was escorted down the red carpet and into her car as she and her court rode in review of the spectators.

An exciting game ended in a Cavalier victory over the Hornets 13-7. Amid flowing streamers and the scream of horns, hoarse Cavaliers made their way home, returning that evening to find Crossland scoring again with a dance honoring, in decorations, the achievements of her classes '66-'69. Entertainment was provided by the Tuesday Boots, and the Homecoming Court was formally presented as the Queen and her escort began the Court Dance.

Parade Of Floats Adds Color To Half Time

Half-time performances by the band, majorettes, and pom-pom girls were followed by the parade of floats. The two judging classes were Class A, for floats submitted by the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes and Class B, for the floats of Crossland's organizations. Entries were judged on originality design, craftsmanship, and relevance to theme by CHS teachers Mr. Smyth and Miss Reap and their guests Lt. and Mrs. Gary Baldwin and Lt. and Mrs. Frank Renshaw. Leading the parade were the class floats followed by the floats of the Medical Careers Club, the German Club, the Student Government, and the cheerleaders. First place trophies were awarded to the Junior Class for Class A and to the cheerleaders for Class B. The parade ended with the winning floats riding victoriously around the stadium.

Powder Puff

Pigskin Powdered As Gridwomen Scrimmage

At 3:47 on Friday, November 22, amid cheers and encouragements, two teams marched onto the Crossland gridiron to decide a championship: the Class of '69 Vs. the Class of '70 in the third annual Powder Puff Football game. The regulation touch-football game of four eight-minute quarters was officiated by Miss Bonnie Blake and Coaches Merricks, Layman, and Thomas.

The score at the end of the first half was '69-0, '70-0. Half-time entertainment was provided by the Junior-Senior Pep Band and climaxed by the crowning of the 1969 Powder Puff Queen — Brad Sorte. Brad was presented with a dunce cap and a bouquet of stinkweed and escorted off the field by members of the Powder Puff Court, comprised of all male Powder Puff cheerleaders.

The game resumed after both teams had received pep talks from their coaches, Junior and Senior Football Lettermen. The second half saw the revitalized junior offense move the ball within a few yards of the goal line only to be stopped by a strong senior offense.

Alice In Wonderland

Cavalier Players Step Into Dreamland Fantasy

Many eyes widened with amazement and faces smiled with delight as area school children watched the Cavalier Players perform "Alice in Wonderland," a play adapted from the novel by Lewis Carroll.

Evening performances were presented on December 12th and 14th for Crossland students, parents, and friends, and morning performances on December 13th and 15th for elementary school children.

Under the direction of Mrs. Carole Silbaugh and Miss Janita Mason, a cast of thirty-one and a crew of thirty-seven tackled the difficult task of making a fantasy appear real. Margot Knight and Liza Lutz, double cast in the role of Alice, enjoyed the chance to act like children again, in spite of the hard work. The Mad Hatter portrayed by Robert Gebhardt, the White Rabbit played by Frances Pearson and other fantasy characters held their audiences in awe as they acted out the popular children's story. As usual the people who worked behind the stage on make-up, props, lights and scenery contributed to the realism of the performance. Set Designer Michelle Cecchini and her crew labored over elaborate scenery while Stage Manager Jamie Kass coordinated backstage activity. Mr. Cyril Carroll produced the play which was a CHS Christmas gift to the holiday entertainment of the community.

Spirit Week

All Crossland Night

Climaxes Spirit Week

In the plans, Spirit Week was designated a special week — a time for all students and faculty to show added enthusiasm and support for school activities. However, in reality, there was a meager showing of Cavaliers who participated.

Weeks of planning resulted in an active program, consisting of days set aside for individual aspects ranging from School Colors Day to Sweatshirt & Hat Day, Teacher Appreciation Day, All Crossland Night, and the Spirit Dance. Rounding out the week's activities were Joe & Jane Spirit and Spirit Link competitions.

Saturday night climaxed Spirit Week with All Crossland Night, a series of competitive events between the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes. These included the milk-stacking, pie-eating, rope-climbing, and pillow-fighting contests. Other popular events were the three-legged, tricycle, sack, and harness races; the egg-toss and water-balloon toss; and the milk-chugging and tug-of-war contests. Following the class competition which was won by the Class of '69, the Spirit Dance, the final event of Spirit Week, was held. Proceeds from the activities were donated to Mike Berg to help defray his medical expenses.

Valentines Dance

Sophomores Play Cupid For Cavalier Couples

With the intent of helping Crossland Cavaliers celebrate the happy occasion of Saint Valentines Day the Class of 1970 sponsored their first Crossland dance, "Love is Blue," on the night of February 15. Traditionally sponsored by the Sophomore Class, the semi-formal dance was planned by Dance Chairman Marilyn Dienst and her committee chairmen with the advice of class sponsor Mr. Wheatley. Hoping to make their major event of the year a success, the sophomores engaged the rock group "December's Children" to provide the music for the occasion. Carrying out the theme expressed by the title of the dance, Decorations Chairman Marylee Rynties and her committee members adorned the walls of the school cafeteria with cupids and paper hearts inscribed with the names of Cavalier couples. From 8:00 until 11:00 when the clean-up committee took charge, the couples who attended the dance enjoyed slow and fast dances to the beat of the band and the cokes and cookies provided by the Sophomore Class.

Carnival

Smell Of Greasepaint Reigns Supreme At CHS

In February, the carefree life of the Grand Imperial Cirque de Paris came to the Crossland stage in Bob Merrill's musical production of "Carnival." Under the direction of Mr. Ern Messina, a cast of fifty students sang, danced and acted in twenty-three lively musical numbers.

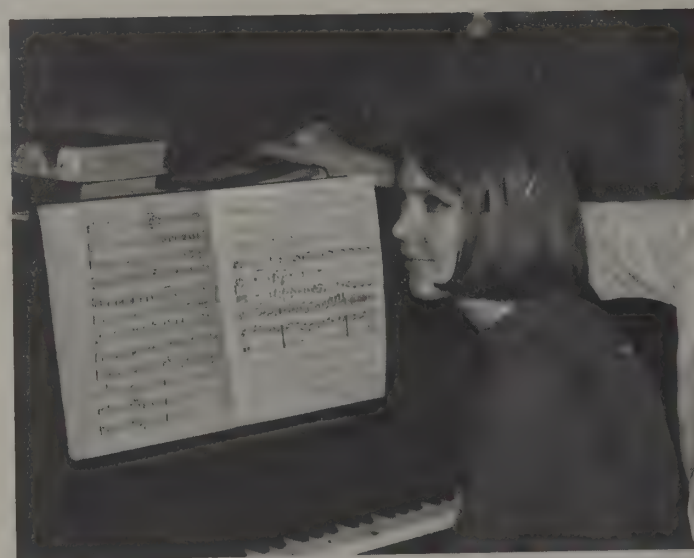

Helium balloons, a circus tent, and carnival trailers and booths constructed by Stage Manager Ron Smith and his crew, set the atmosphere for the production. Authenticity was a keynote of the show and a sword box and snake were just two of the props procured by Prop Mistress Liz Stirnweiss to carry out this theme.

Also contributing to the mood of the musical was the Crossland Orchestra. Directed by Mr. Michael Brescia, the forty member group accompanied choral numbers and the difficult dance numbers choreographed by Mrs. Dora Wolfe and student Ellen Sherman.

For six weeks cast members rehearsed long hours under the coaching of Mr. Messina, Assistant Director Jamie Kass, and Choral Director Mr. Carroll Warner, while the technical staff under Producer Mr. Cyril Carroll worked to have the lighting, sound, costumes, and props ready for the budding actors and actresses. The products of this hard work were four outstanding performances on February 14, 15, 21, and 22, well-attended by students, teachers, and parents, as well as other members of the community.

Miss Crossland Pageant

Brenda Taylor Wins Miss Crossland Crown

Amid the anticipation of a capacity audience and eight hopeful finalists, Brenda Taylor was crowned Miss Crossland 1969 on March 8. Several weeks of competition preceded the night of the Miss Crossland Pageant and narrowed the original field of fifty-seven girls to fifteen semi-finalists and eventually eight finalists.

Emcee Grady O'Rear opened the pageant with the long-awaited announcement of the finalists: Cheryl Haselby, Vicki Willsie, Diana Tabler, Becky Hickox, Brenda Taylor, Donna Patton, Mary Ford, and Zoe Rygh. They then displayed their talent, and poise in the question session. After long deliberation, the judges climaxed the pageant with their decision: third runner-up, Donna Patton; second runner-up, Zoe Rygh; first runner-up, Becky Hickox; and Miss Crossland 1969 — Brenda Taylor.

Top Talent Entertains CHS Pageant Audience

Chairman Gwen Grossmiller coordinated the Miss Crossland Pageant which was sponsored by the Classes of 1969 and 1970 and included a preliminary judging and luncheon for the fifteen semi-finalists and judges. The primary purpose of the preliminary judging was the selection of the eight finalists who would present their talent on the night of the pageant. After weeks of practicing routines and making costumes, eight girls entertained the audience with singing, dancing, sewing, and acting. Miss Crossland, Brenda Taylor gave a modern and traditional interpretation of the role of Swanhilda from the ballet "Coppelia." The acts of the runners-up included a baton routine by Donna Patton, a ballet by Zoe Rygh, and a display of a wedding trousseau by seamstress Becky Hickox. All of the eight talent numbers provided the judges with a difficult decision.

Faculty Life

Faculty Displays Their Own Special Spirit

Through the halls of Crossland passes a rare breed of human being. These creatures can be seen, thermoses in hands, scurrying through the building in an effort to reach a classroom safely before the morning rush. They direct hall traffic, issue late passes, administer exams, sponsor clubs, and wash blackboards in addition to their main task of educating Crossland's 2,332 students. They have but one free period a day when they gulp coffee while preparing tomorrow's lesson or grading yesterday's homework. With nerves of steel they face each day not knowing what it will bring. Each afternoon they shove papers into a briefcase and start for home and an evening of paperwork. And yet, they return each day for more. There must be a reason. Maybe it's . . . satisfaction? Oh yes, the name of these creatures? They're known as teachers.

ATHLETICS

A Senior, a Junior, a Sophomore,
Experienced and inexperienced,
All members of a team
Working to glorify Crossland.
Each member determined to do his best
For his school and for himself
Hoping to stand out in his performance
And to spark his teammates
With the will to win.
Boys on the field, the court, the mats,
The track, and the course
Developing physical stamina and mental acuity
Learning the value of individual excellence
While working with others
To achieve a common goal:
Victory — the product of a team effort
And the spirit of the fans
Defeat — the bearer of lessons in sportsmanship
To the coaches, the team, and the school.

Golf

Golfers Drive Way To Area Championship

A steady yearly improvement was climaxed with the ultimate goal as Crossland's 1968 golf team drove, chipped, and putted their way to the Metropolitan Area Championship. After rolling through the county championship with an overall record of 11-0, Crossland's golfers defeated the Montgomery County Champs of Walter Johnson, in a close 5-4 match. In the final play-off Crossland was again victorious as O'Connell fell 7-2.

The team was made up of ten men, only three of which were seniors. Three-year veteran Russ Smith, runner-up in the area school boy tournament, made a sound foundation for the team and went personally undefeated. Jim Oles and Bob Hendry also contributed consistently in their roles as ranking members. However, team work was the key factor and several juniors also gave strong individual performances, with Pat Lasher, Dave Lambert, and Chris Roberts consistently turning out important victories. This combination of individual talent plus working together as a unit led to the team's success and insured Crossland a strong team in the coming season.

Under the direction of Coach John Merricks, the team worked out daily on the Andrews A.F.B. course, competing with each other for a chance at one of the six starting spots. The tough course at Tantallon served as the team's home course and was the scene of several Crossland victories.

Champ's Form Repeated In County And District

For the third consecutive year, Crossland trackmen took home another county trophy after sweeping the meet under the lights at Northwestern. A week later, the Cavaliers repeated their championship form in the District Meet at Crossland and not only won the contest, but qualified the most men for the State Meet in Baltimore.

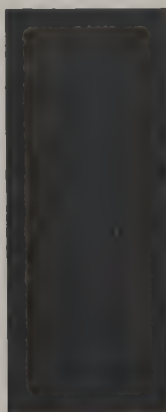

Heading off the thinclads distance department were Don Jones, Charlie Kimmey, Jens Rygh, and Steve Van Ness. These four seniors comprised the two-mile relay team which took honors in the Penn. State Relays.

In the six field events, Crossland was rather weak the entire season. Pole vaulter Rick Rinn posted the only new school record. However, new men which showed promise were Dean Williams in the discus, Bob Holmes in the triple jump, and Ed Gibbons in the high jump.

Crossland's history of strong sprinters was upheld by this year's group of record-breaking runners. Among this group were Mike Edds, Bob Bosler, Dave Ford, and Lou Farri. This foursome made up the 880-yard relay team which placed third in the State Meet. Two members of the team, Bob Bosler and Dave Ford, had earlier excelled in the meet by setting new school records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Despite these strong showings, Crossland placed a disappointing sixth in the State Meet at Dulaney High School.

In dual meet competition the tracksters managed to achieve an impressive record of thirty consecutive wins, only to be beaten by Bowie, a dark horse in the county. Experienced coaching by Mr. Stanley Pitts and Mr. Lindsay Thomas, and strong individual performances figured heavily in Crossland's winning ways.

Crossland Relay Men Lead Team To Victory

Crossland's 1968 relay teams were the most consistent point scorers in all the competitive meets. This was due in part to Coach Stanley Pitts' constant emphasis on baton passing and timing. Pitts stressed that a slight error could cause an entire relay team to be disqualified. Such was the case when Crossland's 440 relay team, Louie Farri, Dennis DeGuzman, Mike Edds, and Bob Bosler, pulled out in front of their competition at the State Meet by 20 yards, only to be disqualified by an illegal baton pass.

Consistently the backbone of the track team, the relay squads placed well in the 7th Annual Penn State Relays in Philadelphia. Competing with the best high school competition in eleven eastern states, the Cavaliers placed sixth.

The 880 relay team, Farri, Edds, Bosler, and Ford, also did well in big meet competition, winning their heat at the State Meet and placing third overall.

Victorious Cavaliers Brandish Big Sticks

Powerful batting accented the J.V. baseball team's season and resulted in a winning record for the inexperienced team. Overall, Crossland did well in the league, losing twice to only Suitland and High Point and sweeping or breaking even with the other six teams.

The players got off to a rocky start by losing their first four games, but a strong will to win prevailed and the team bounced back to win their next five games in a row. Two consecutive one-run losses broke the hot Cavalier streak. Undaunted, they finished the season by winning the final two contests.

Under the direction of Coach John Earle, the team gained valuable knowledge and experience while at the same time preparing themselves for varsity competition.

Cavaliers Break Even For Best Season Yet

Struggling to make Crossland a major threat in all sports, the 1968 baseball team achieved Crossland's most respectable record in three years of County AA competition. After two dismal seasons in the cellar, the Cavalier batsmen began to work together and finished in the league with a 7-8 record. This, plus an opening victory against Ballou, helped the team make their first even season. Displaying good strategy and well-rounded playing, the Cavaliers lost their only two game series to Bowie, while breaking even with the rest of the teams and sweeping two from Suitland. Close games were the story of the season as Crossland lost six of its contests in one-run decisions.

Highlighting the season were constant pitching duels which tested the mettle of starting pitchers Jack Wolfe and Randy Wilkerson.

Hoping to master the team's major weakness from previous years, Coach Larry Layman put a heavy accent on batting practice. As a result, Crossland was shut out only once and averaged over four runs a game. Reliable fielding and more alert base-running also aided the cause. These winning combinations and a renewed interest in the game promise to make next year's baseball team a strong contender in the league.

Cavaliers Share Third County Championship

For the third consecutive year, Crossland's fighting Cavaliers ended their football season in first place, sharing the Prince Georges' County AA title with High Point. Both teams finished with identical 7-1 league records, while Crossland added another victory to their overall record by defeating Central, 21-12, in a non-league game.

Looking for revenge from two previous meetings, Northwestern proved to be the spoiler and upset the Cavaliers, 20-18. High Point lost their only game to Crossland in a one point thriller, 7-6, and in their final contest edged Northwestern 20-19 to gain a share of the title.

Crossland's powerful defense again proved itself the most devastating in the league by allowing only nine touchdowns in nine games. Three shut-outs were credited to the defenders as the offenses of Bowie, Oxon Hill, and Suitland tried in vain to reach the goal line. Senior Nick Mona, a stand out in his three years as a linebacker, again took honors as he was selected for the second defensive team of the county. End David Ford and defensive back Steve Carpenter were also chosen to the All County team.

A potent offense balanced the Cavalier team. In the air and on the ground Crossland's well-drilled ends and backs scored 28 touchdowns and proceeded to demoralize the opposing defenses with steady drives and long-yardage plays.

Terry Jarnigan, center for Crossland's excellent front line, achieved All Metropolitan honors for the second year in a row, this time as a member of the first team. Jarnigan, guard Gary Doyle, and wingback Paul Van Cleef were also named to the All County team.

After losing 15 seniors, head coach John Merricks did another fine job of shaping his returning juniors and sophomores into a first rate team. Long hours of intensive practicing and conditioning during the summer prepared the Cavaliers for the reputation they had to sustain in the coming fall. Mr. Merricks was aided by four assistant coaches, Larry Layman and Dick Knode on defense; Blair Overton and Lindsay Thomas on offense.

Offense Runs Over Challenging Rivals

Crossland's offense marched over most of their opposition in the 1968 season. The little glorified but highly versatile front line consistently opened up holes that the backs used to give the Cavaliers a winning margin. The offensive line and ends formed a successful combination as the halfbacks went on to average an outstanding record of over 7 yards per play. Overall, the offense passed and ran 436 plays for a total of 3038 yards in nine games.

Many outstanding offensive players were awarded honors for their efforts. Paul Van Cleef controlled the element of surprise with his reverses and end sweeps, averaging 12.6 yards a carry. He was also named back of the week. Terry Jarnigan also excelled as he was selected as an All Metropolitan center. These two players were part of a powerful offense, an essential element of a winning football team.

Defense Holds Foes To A Standstill

The 1968 Cavalier defense was the most balanced in Crossland's history. While the offensive team averaged well over 300 yards per game, the defenders allowed the opposing teams an average of only 140 yards, the lowest in the league.

Defensive standout, linebacker Nick Mona led the team with 150 bonecrushing tackles while four other defensive men registered over 50 each. The Cavaliers also made their mark on the scoreboard by running back touchdowns on a punt return and an interception.

To add insult to the many injuries, the Cavalier defenders intercepted fifteen passes and recovered ten fumbles.

J.V. Gridders Finish

Second In County Race

Following in the winning footsteps of the Crossland varsity, the junior varsity football team captured second place in County AA competition. Under the management of Lindsay Thomas and the expert coaching of John Merricks, the young gridders established an impressive record of seven wins, one loss, and one tie. At the season's end, Crossland had amassed 161 points to their opponents' 42.

Accounting for much of the offensive team's success on the ground was halfback Mike Dulong, who averaged almost 200 yards per game. David Sills, the leading receiver, helped to balance the attack and helped make the Cavaliers an offensive threat in both departments.

After an opening game tie with Bowie, the junior varsity displayed their ability and enthusiasm by marching over their next five opponents with comparative ease. The seventh game of the schedule proved to be the highlight of the season as the Cavaliers defeated league champion Parkdale, 13-7. The following loss to Suitland edged Crossland out of first place, but the spirited team defeated Duval in the final game of the year.

Cross-Country

Cross-Country Team Uses '68 To Rebuild

After two consecutive county championships, Coach Stanley Pitts found the going rough for the 1968 cross-country team. A vital factor in the slow season was the loss of ten seniors who made up the nucleus of last year's team. Using the season as a time to rebuild, Coach Pitts taught the many newcomers the fine points of long distance running. The strenuous practices and jaunts across the countryside helped the young runners realize the importance of conditioning. As a result of their training, the J.V. team compiled a good record and placed second in the county championship.

Saving their best for last, the varsity team surprised the competition and came in sixth place in the P.G. County AA Meet. A week later, at the state invitational, the long distance men bore down against tough competition and again placed a respectable sixth.

Cavalier Hoopsters

Take Third In County

After several seasons of mediocrity, the Crossland basketball team showed their true form and captured third place in Prince Georges AA competition. With an overall record of 11-6, which included a victory over non-league Arundel, the Cavalier cagers displayed a strong, unified form which had seldom been seen on the home court before. Part of the reason for this was the return of three varsity players from last year, Paul Van Cleef, Doug Sills, and Dean Williams. Alternating and frequently starting were two members of last year's J.V. team, Phil Taylor and Steve Buell.

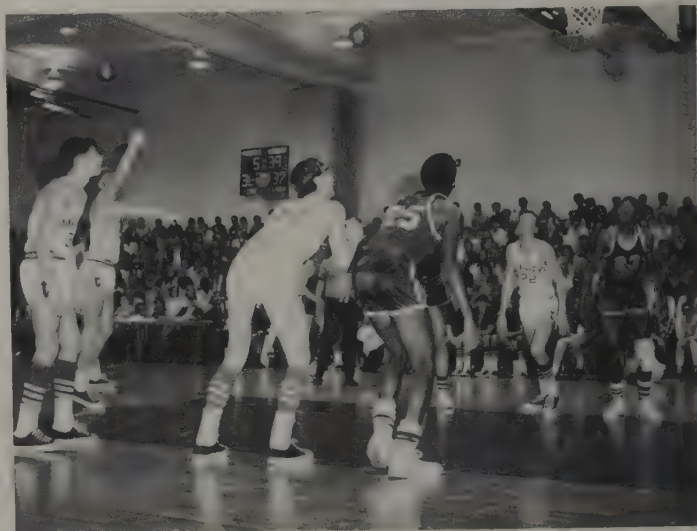

Taking advantage of his experienced starters, Coach LaFontaine whipped them into a tight offensive and defensive unit. With fundamentals a thing of the past, the players could concentrate on team work as well as individual accomplishment. Paul Van Cleef proved the most versatile player, averaging 21 points per game and scoring 357 for the season. In two different contests, against Bowie and DuVal, he sank an outstanding 35 points. This led to post-season honors, as Van Cleef was selected to the All-County team by the Washington Post. Doug Sills was close behind Van Cleef with a 17 point average. Sills' tricky moves and excellent ball control continually set the other teams off balance. Defensively, 6'6" Dean Williams was the big man on the backboards. His rebounding ability was a vital part of many Cavalier victories.

The season was highlighted by several upset victories and close games. In the first part of the season Crossland knocked off highly ranked Suitland and gained a spot in the Metropolitan area ratings. After winning in their first meeting, both Bladensburg and Northwestern fell to the fighting Cavaliers on the home court. In the final game of the year Crossland came within six points of defeating the DuVal Tigers, the county Champions, who had never lost a league game.

Although the well-developed skills of the players made the team a success, the support of the student body did a great deal to keep morale at a peak. This was exemplified by the fact that the cagers lost only one game at home, while winning seven. Playing with the support of a capacity crowd continually resulted in rallies and the strongest efforts of each individual.

J.V. Cagers Scramble To Victorious Season

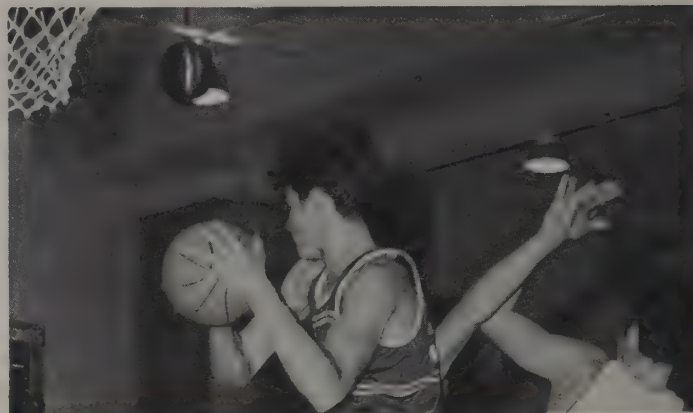

Playing for experience and with a hopeful eye on a varsity spot next year, the younger Cavalier basketball men completed the season with a respectable 9-8 record. Learning their opponents' weaknesses, the J.V. team played on even terms in a tough league.

A discouraging one-point loss against Arundel marred the season opener, but did not count against the team's league record. The young Cavaliers eventually got on the winning track in the third game of the season and fought hard throughout the remainder of the schedule. By beating Bowie, Oxon Hill, and Parkdale twice, the Crossland J.V. showed that they did not depend on "lucky" victories.

Under the direction of Coach Smith, a talented member of the faculty team, the boys learned the basics of working together and functioning as a group. Realistic practice games helped to instill confidence and teach them how to perform under pressure. Following in his brother's footsteps, Sophomore David Sills played well throughout the season, both defensively and offensively. Another standout was Scott Ellison, who used his experience from the year before to guide the team on its winning path. Perhaps the most important tactic however, was Coach Smith's giving each boy an equal chance by making frequent substitutions and altering their positions.

J.V. Wrestlers Learn Tricks Of The Trade

Hoping to build a strong backbone for next year's varsity team, Coach Sipe spent much of his time working with the younger matmen on the J.V. team. Mostly sophomores and a few juniors, they learned quickly and produced the only victory of the season for Crossland wrestlers, when they slipped by Bladensburg in a low scoring 5-3 match. Besides Bladensburg, the Cavalier team put up a stiff resistance against Suitland and DuVal.

Conditioning, style, and the basic fundamentals of the sport were stressed to both the J.V. and varsity teams. Even though the teams did not produce impressive records, the practicing of tricky reversals and escapes in actual competition gave the individual wrestlers valuable knowledge and training. Next year the team's enthusiasm and confidence will be backed with a little more experience and know-how, and this will hopefully produce a winning season.

Varsity Wrestling

Crossland Wrestlers Held By Opponents

The 1968-69 sports season brought a new form of competition to the Crossland athletic scene with the introduction of the wrestling team. Although this sport had already been adopted by most of the schools in the county, the wrestling program at Crossland was previously limited to the gym classes. With plenty of raw but eager material, Coach Sipe began by teaching his team the fundamentals of competition wrestling. Only three members, Bob Klaus, Randy Webster and Pat Stone, had previous experience.

The ambitious grapplers anticipated a winning season but lacked the experience of the other teams. Although they didn't win a match, the Cavalier matmen performed well against Parkdale, Northwestern, Oxon Hill and Bladensburg. These matches were marked by exciting finishes as Crossland almost posted come-from-behind victories. These successful finishes were due to the excellent performances of the wrestlers in the heavier weight classes — Dave Allwine, Randy Webster and Bud Hanbury. Bob Klaus, a middle-weight, also brought home frequent victories. The most outstanding member of the team was Pat Stone, who wrestled in the 112 lb. class. He lost only one decision in regular season competition and reached the finals in the County Championship at Parkdale.

Indoor Track

Crossland Trackmen Prepare For Spring

Aspiring to make a strong impression in the coming season, Crossland trackmen began their conditioning during the long winter months. To many of the young athletes the word "indoor" was deceiving as they found themselves practicing long hours outside in freezing temperatures. Four invitational meets, two at the D.C. Armory and two at the Baltimore Civic Center, made up the entire season schedule. Running and competing with some of the strongest schools in Maryland, the indoor trackmen did not place high as a team, however several individuals gave excellent performances. Steve DeMedicis, in his second year as a hurdler, took first in the 60-yard high hurdles at the State Invitational in Baltimore and second in the D.C. Invitational. A newcomer, Mike Gulino, also stood out as he finished second in the 100-yard dash at the D.C. armory. The 880 relay team, Gulino, Lou Farri, Rene Varrin, and Dave Ford, overcame several problems to place second at the same meet.

Coach Pitts constantly expressed the importance of good basic style and form to his younger competitors while he polished up the performances of the more experienced boys. As a result, the team completed a good season overall and assured Crossland of a strong outdoor team in the coming spring.

A very special member of the CHS cross-country, indoor, and outdoor track teams ever since her sophomore year is Jane Hill. Having become interested in track after watching a former Crossland student win a televised indoor meet, Jane's first coach was Crossland's own Mr. Stan Pitts. After a short and unsatisfactory affiliation with the Sports International Club in Washington, Jane waited the necessary time and then joined the Frederick Track and Field Club.

Since then she has become a national figure in women's track competition. Specializing in the two mile, Jane has also competed in the 880-yard and mile events. In the summer of 1968, Jane won the State, Regional, and National Junior Olympic 880 run for the 14-17 age group and scored an upset victory in the 1500 meter event, thus qualifying for the Women's Olympic Trials. Running against top national runners, Jane was unable to qualify. This year Jane was named the South Atlantic AAU outstanding woman competitor in cross-country and track. At this pace Jane may someday inspire other girls by her success in the individualist field of International Women's Track.

All Crossland Night Premier Is Successful

Essential to the smooth function of various student activities is the Student Government. Enabling certain members of the student body to perform the duties of senators, representatives, and officers, the Student Government also helps to acquaint its members with bi-cameral legislative procedures of other functions of our democratic system of government.

Sponsoring Homecoming activities has traditionally been the responsibility of Student Government. With the underlying theme of "Crossland Scores Again," chairmen Sherry Caward and Marilyn Brock planned a memorable weekend of events beginning with the production of Teahouse of the August Moon, which was followed by the Alumni tea. For the first time, the Student Government entered a float in the halftime competition, along with the floats from the three classes, and other various clubs. The weekend was culminated with the Homecoming Dance, featuring the Tuesday Boots.

Highlighting other Student Government activities was the Candy Drive. This was held in November to finance a foreign exchange student for the next school year. Spirit Week from January 20 to 25, brought sweatshirt day, Joe and Jane spirit, and a CHS first, All Crossland Night, in which all three classes participated in different feats of skill, with a dance that followed. All the proceeds from the activities during Spirit Week were donated to Mike Berg's family to help pay for his hospital treatments.

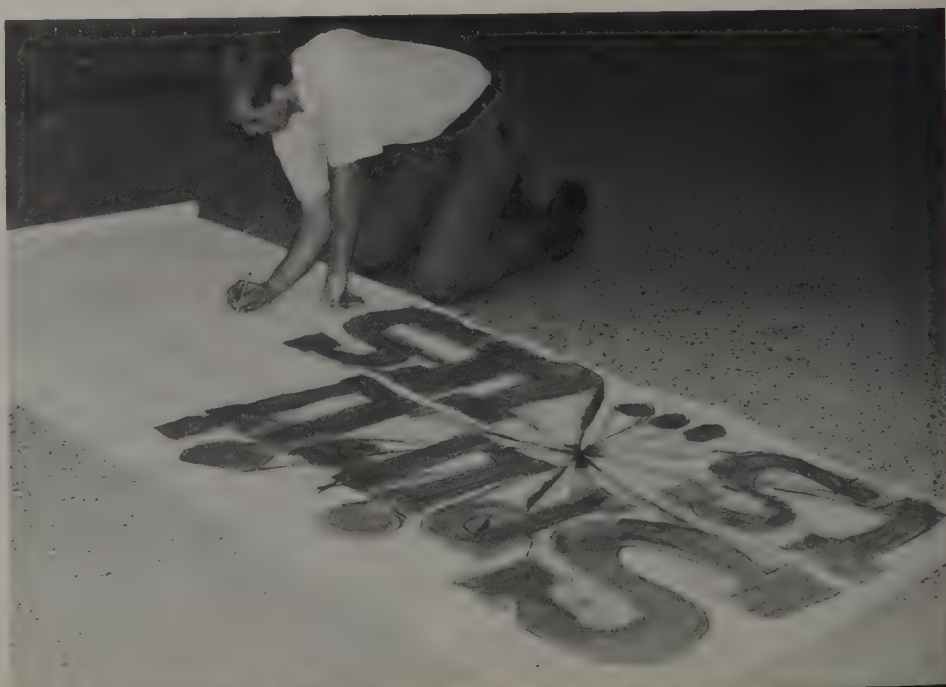

These numerous activities sponsored by the Student Government and varied duties they performed have given proof of the fact that the Students Government truly is the student voice.

Safety council

Crossland Fuzz Patrol School Activities

Crossland's civil servants, members of the Safety Council, serve behind the scenes for the benefit of the administration and students of Crossland High School.

Safety Council provided a certain efficiency necessary for Crossland to remain Number 1. During fire drills, members assisted students and faculty by helping to clear the building and checking doors, windows, and lights. Collecting tickets at sports events eased the load on the administration. Perhaps the most invaluable service provided by Safety Council was the supervision and aid in parking at night activities and Saturday football games.

Campus life

YFC Takes On New Name With Original Events

A "most unusual event award" should be given to Campus Life for the continuous flow of out of the ordinary activities, including a Burger Bash, Protest Night, Groovin' in the Graveyard, Guru Room Pack, and George Washington's birthday party. These events added much to the social scene at Crossland this year.

Campus Life, known in previous years as Youth for Christ, met twice a month on Friday nights often carrying Bibles, employing them to better understand today's problems and concepts. The whole purpose of Campus Life was to make members well-rounded students on the high school campus.

Tri-hi-y

Marryin' Dave And Jugs Spread Good Will

Aside from holding and planning business meetings every other Tuesday, the Tri-Hi-Y kept busy sponsoring many special events. A traditional service project, a party for the under-privileged children at Junior Village, was again carried out this fall. In November the popular Sadie Hawkins dance featuring the Trestle Special and Marryin' Sam, Dave Burgess, gave female Cavaliers a chance to snag the boy of their choice. In addition to these major events, the group also led the school in the observance of Brotherhood Week in February. Throughout all the year's activities, Tri-Hi-Y members strove to exemplify the high standards of Christian character.

Crusaders service

Crusaders Sponsor

Variety Of Projects

Although small in number, the Crusader Service Club has performed many worthwhile activities. Aiding and assisting the school and community in such projects as house painting, parties for retarded children, ushering at the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies, and giving a party at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, enabled the students to understand the social problems of the world and how to face them.

Another unheeded, yet much needed service is the club's operation of the Lost and Found, which was open before and after school each day for the benefit of all CHS students. Having expressed their concern for Crossland Cavaliers and for others around them, Crusaders ended another year of service.

Medical careers

Future Medics Deliver First School Float

Through the efforts of its members, the Medical Careers Club entered its first homecoming float this year. Giving Surrattsville the treatment with white and green crepe paper and a hypo needle, displayed the creative ability of the club members.

Bi-monthly meetings, guest speakers, and a bake sale at Iverson Mall were but a few of the activities sponsored by the Medical Careers Club. The club is active not only in school, but also in Community Service Projects. One of their major activities was that of making visits to Saint Elizabeth's Hospital. The highlight of this project was a Christmas party given for the benefit of the patients at the hospital. Another annual club function was an auction of keepsakes donated by teachers and sold to the highest bidder.

Ending a year of activities successfully carried out with the help of Mrs. McElhose, the club awarded one outstanding member with a one hundred dollar scholarship.

Future teachers of america

Future Teachers Show Talent In Education

Students seen departing for various area elementary schools are most likely to be members of Crossland's chapter of the Future Teachers of America. Achieving experience and poise in the art of conducting a class and observing the techniques of the professional instructors were the two major goals sought by these future teachers as they journeyed to Temple Hills and Middleton Valley Elementary Schools.

Leading the school in the observance of National Education Week, club members were responsible for the showcase display and many bulletin boards in the school halls.

Highlighting their spring activities was a talent show directed by Mr. Messina and Mr. Carroll and open to all aspiring Cavaliers. During Senior Takeover Day, club members demonstrated their teaching abilities as students assumed the role of their favorite teacher.

Language clubs

Adler Aids Orphanage In Octoberfest Party

Crossland's German Club fulfilled its purpose of promoting the goodwill of German-speaking countries with their celebration of Octoberfest held at the German orphanage in Upper Marlboro Maryland. Dancing, serving refreshments, and presenting the orphanage with a check rounded out a day of fun for the children and the CHS students. Desiring to visit places with an authentic German atmosphere, the Crossland Adler toured the German and Austrian Embassies, dined in a German Restaurant, and toured Pennsylvania Dutch Country. Members contributed to Homecoming festivities by entering their replica of a German beer stein in the float competition. They also attended the annual masquerade ball held in mid-winter at High Point High School and spiced up their regular meetings with their preparation of German meals.

Also contributing to the international spirit were the French and Spanish clubs. Developing a taste for the cuisine characteristic of their respective countries, members of the two clubs traveled to two of Washington's gourmet restaurants, Le BisTro and El Bodegon.

Highlighting the French club's activities was an October tea given in honor of our foreign exchange student, Jimmy Izawa. The Christmas season found Spanish club members breaking piñatas at a Christmas party.

Proceeds from club bake sales were used to sponsor a needy child in South America.

Future scientists, biology clubs

Biology Widens Scope Of Science At CHS

With three science clubs at CHS, interested Cavaliers were able to question and investigate various fundamentals of science and biology. Students were provided with the opportunity to increase their knowledge through individual and group research.

The two biology clubs in Crossland, the Linnaeus Biology Club and the Golgi Body, spent much of their time after school in the lab. The Linnaeus biologists study all phases of biology. The Golgi Body, however, is interested primarily in micro-biology.

The purpose of the Biology Clubs is to give the members insight into biological careers, and to enable students to pursue their particular interests in biology. This was accomplished by field trips to Solomons Island and Cederville State Forest, guest speakers, and group discussions.

Field trips to the movie "2001, A Space Odyssey", the Naval Research Laboratory, and the Bureau of Standards activated an interest in the physical sciences, the foremost goal of the Future Scientists of America.

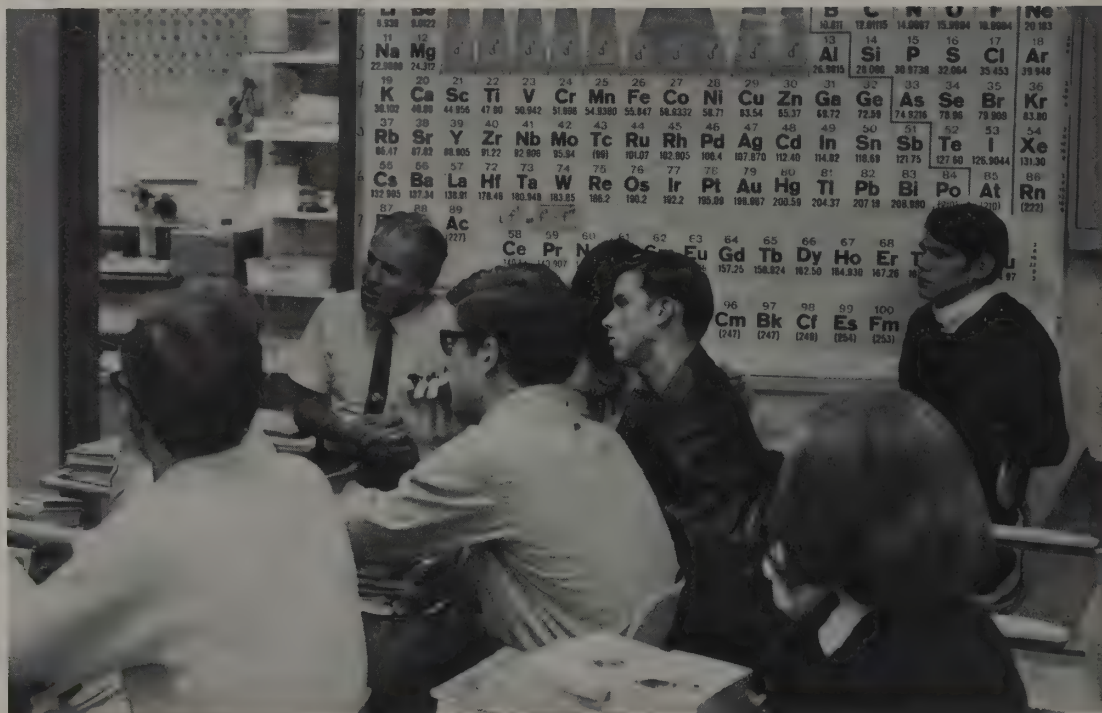

Other functions featured projects on different scientific astronomy, and guest speakers on different scientific topics. The largest event was the annual Crossland Science Fair which the Future Scientists sponsored. Preparations for this event began early in the school year with all science students participating.

Math club

Mathematicians Visit Research Laboratory

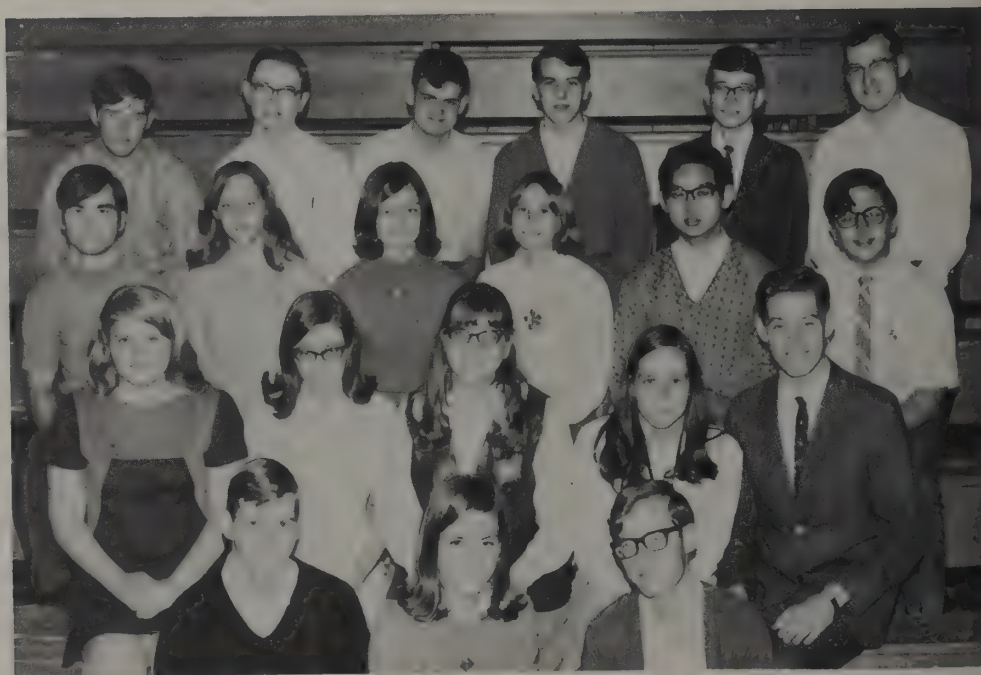

Competing for speed and accuracy in the solving of problems, members of the CHS Mathematics Club met weekly under the sponsorship of Mr. Baumgardner and Mr. Shulman. Orientation in systems of data programming at an IBM Computer Center proved enlightening for members. Later trips to the Naval Research Lab further illustrated applied use of mathematics in modern technology and following which, an NRL Scientists spoke to the members on topology. Mr. Hanrahan, a math teacher at Crossland, introduced the members to Non Euclidian Geometry, helping to make the CHS Math Club a most valuable element in high school life.

Debate, history clubs

CHS Debaters Travel To Wheaton Invitational

Hours of preparing convincing arguments and practicing weekly yielded the Crossland Debate Teams first invitation to the Wheaton Invitational, a debate tournament attended by teams from three states. Another competitive meet which required sound logic and quick thinking on the part of Crossland's debaters was the Prince Georges County interschool debate and seven single matches with county schools.

Debaters amassed negative and affirmative points as they debated the international debate question of compulsory service for all U.S. citizens many times during the year.

While their fellow Cavaliers cited history to score debate victories members of the History Club aimed to develop a more interesting approach to reviewing historical events. An indepth look at archeological exploration was the topic of the first lecture given for History Club by Mrs. Norma Greer, a member of Prince Georges County Amateur Archeology Club. Formerly called the Forum, sponsor Mrs. Ashley and club members took trips to visit the United Nations and the Carlisle House in Old Alexandria to conclude their year of historic learning.

Lettermen's club

Lettermen End Year Of Victories With Picnic

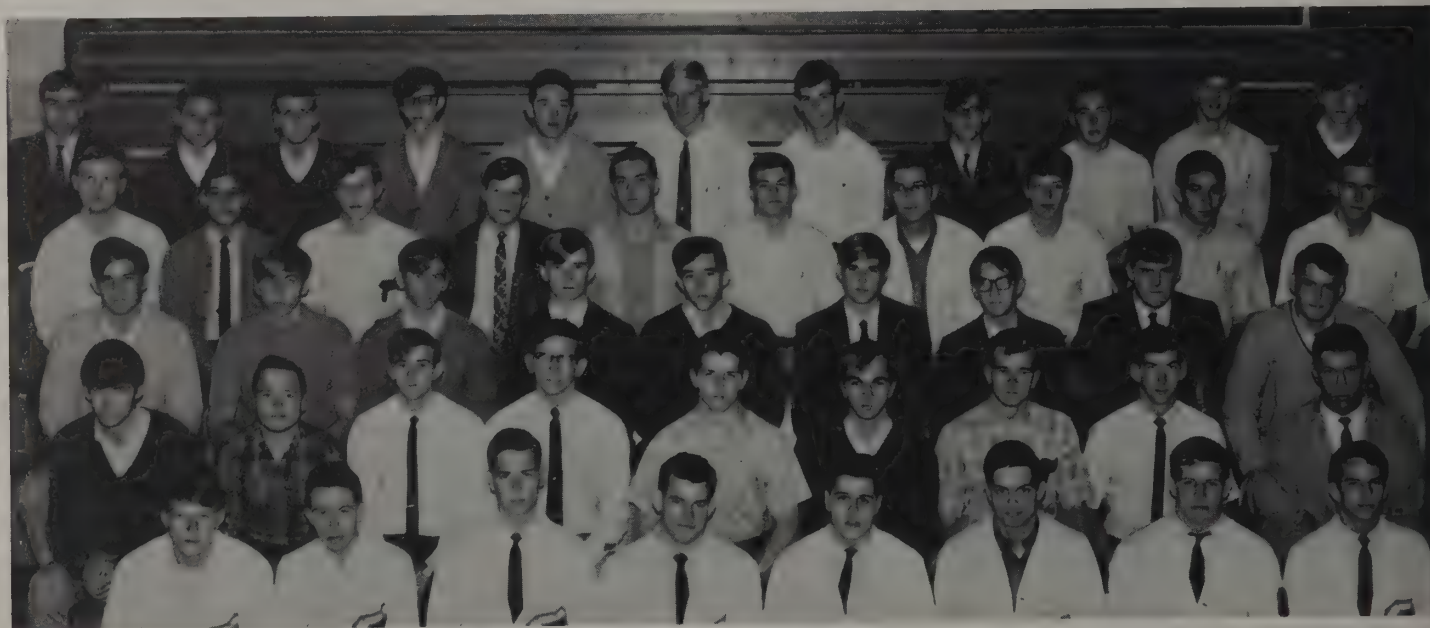

Three-dimensional, block style, red and white "C's" distinguish CHS's outstanding male athletes. The Varsity "C" is awarded to those who have lettered in either football, track, golf, basketball, baseball, or the newly formed wrestling team. The athlete is then eligible for the Lettermen's Club.

The club provides incentive for outstanding performance in school sponsored sports activities. A movie after school for those lettermen who plan to continue their future in football, and their annual spring picnic at Fort Washington were two of the activities sponsored by the Crossland lettermen.

Proudly sporting letter sweater and jackets, the lettermen were often found supporting their fellow lettermen at games, meets, and matches by leading the crowd in rousing cheers.

Girls sports association

G.S.A. Plays Role In Physical Fitness

To enable interested girls to participate in after school and weekend sports events is the primary function of the Girl's Sports Association. Members engaged in a variety of sports including basketball, volleyball, and softball. Intramural competition between the club's teams gave the girls an opportunity to stay physically fit and to improve their athletic skills. Afternoon sessions were also used by the girls as gymnastic practices with pieces of apparatus and tumbling mats available for their use.

Through all of their various activities the GSA strives to develop sportsmanship and leadership in addition to helping its members to create new friendships through athletic competition.

Chess Club, Modern Dance

Dancers Move To The Music Of Carnival

The varied interests and talents of Crossland students were brought out in the practice sessions of the Modern Dance and Chess Clubs.

Strains of "Love Potion Number Nine" and other musical selections echoed through the CHS halls each Monday afternoon as Modern dancers performed rhythmic routines. Stimulating interest in the art of modern dance and expression of ideas and emotions through movement, members of this newly formed club shared dance interpretations of jazz recordings and learned principles of choreography from their sponsor Mrs. Wolfe.

The limber members were given opportunities to show their talents by presenting routines for the Physical Education classes and performing in Crossland's production of the musical "Carnival." Drawing on the knowledge of Mrs. Wolfe and choreographer Ellen Sherman, the dancers mastered intricate movements to "A Sword, A Rose, and A Cape" and other show songs, and survived long hours of practice and aching muscles to delight "Carnival" audiences.

Conquering their desire to accompany their fellow students in the 3:30 Friday trek homeward, members of the Chess Club could be found each week polishing their game strategy during informal practices or participating in the quarterly tournaments. The intramural tournaments were held according to the Seven Round Swiss System with members playing several matches which eventually yielded a club champion for each of the four quarters.

Doing their part to display Crossland ability, six Cavaliers matched their wits against chess enthusiasts from nearby Suitland and Sasscer High Schools, and succeeded both times in checkmating their opponents.

National honor society

Scholars Sell Cokes To Night School Students

Crossland Seniors and Juniors who fulfill the ideals of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service receive the honor of induction into the National Honor Society.

This year hours of preparation by old NHS members under the supervision of sponsors Mrs. Rosemary Purcell, Mrs. Carolyn Steelman, and Mrs. Carol Calhoun culminated in the memorable spring and fall inductions.

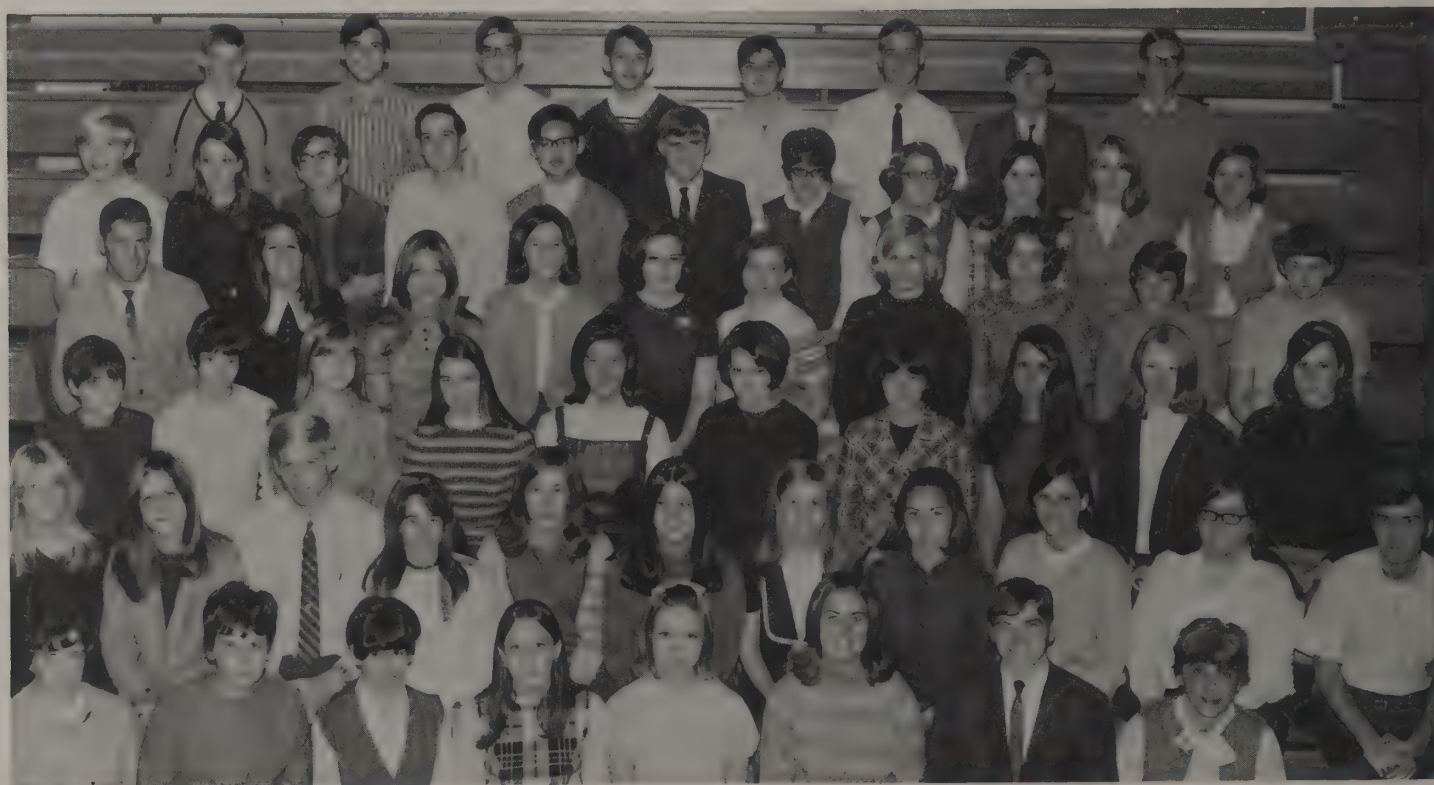

The fall induction took place in October when newly tapped Seniors were advised by speaker Father Haydn from Georgetown University. In the spring induction juniors and seniors swelled the ranks of the society.

An important function of the Honor Society was the sale of cokes, coffee, and candy to the Evening high school and adult education students.

Ending the year on a high note, all members enjoyed a picnic and a party.

Thespians

Teahouse, Carnival Chosen By Thespians

Promoting and perfecting the level of dramatic performance and appreciation is the major concern of all members of Crossland's dramatic society, the Thespians.

At the end of each school year, the plays for the following year are chosen by the Thespians. Reading, discussing, and arguing take place to select the plays best suited for Crossland's Dramatic Department. The plays picked for the 1968-1969 school year are "Teahouse of the August Moon," "Alice in Wonderland," "Carnival," and "Dark of the Moon."

A new program did away with Drama Club, and made all people working on the plays Thespian Apprentices. These apprentices work for the ten points required to become a Thespian. Thespians, a non-secret, non-social order, inducts as many people as can meet the requirements. To become a Thespian, a student must also have worked on at least two plays.

Thespians, from one year to the next, teach new workers the techniques of acting, make-up, set building, and staging. Each year something new is learned and gained as out with the old, and in with the new.

Theatre Appreciation

Theatre-Goers See Euripedes' Electra

This year Crossland theatergoers banded together to form the Theater Appreciation Club to share their love of drama. Aside from reading and criticizing plays during after school meetings, members viewed productions of Euripedes' Electra, Rogers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma" and "Dark of the Moon" at Gaullaudet College for the Blind. In February, members journeyed to the MacArthur Theater to see the movie "Oliver."

Taking advantage of other cultural opportunities in the Washington area, the drama enthusiasts visited a local theater group to appreciate their interpretation of various plays.

Literary Arts

Found Reflects CHS

Literary Genius

Comprised of students who are instilled with an interest in creative writing, the CHS Literary Arts Club stresses experience in all phases of the publication of the literary magazine, Found; from composing rough drafts to writing the final copy. Through the efforts of the club, a deeper interest in the literature and various literary styles are promoted in its members. The climax of their efforts was the publication of the magazine in June.

The club's trips to various theaters and movies often provided background and ideas for writings. Among their activities they went to see "2001", and held several bakesales.

Band

Band Rises To Fame With Mike Douglas

"Practice makes perfect." With these well-known words in mind, band members spent endless hours learning, practicing, and revising their pieces. Comprised of the Concert Band, Marching Band, and Training Band, Crossland's band department is a faction of our school of which Cavaliers can certainly be proud.

Providing music for the Honor Society Induction and presenting the Christmas Concert were only two of the several student activities in which the Concert Band performed. In addition to playing for school functions, the Concert Band participated in various area events including the Maryland State Instrumental, Prince Georges County Music Festival, and the Care Concert. Members of the Concert Band also assumed the role of the Marching Band. Pep rallies and football games were highlighted by formations and songs performed by the Marching Band.

For the first time in Crossland's musical history, the band was asked to play for the Mike Douglas show in Baltimore. The members played for the audience as they entered the studio, and were Mike's guests for the show.

Cavaliers interested in acquiring the fundamental musical skills and techniques were given the opportunity to join the Training Band.

Concert Choir

Vocalists Hit High Note Of Perfection

The Concert Choir is the major performing group in vocal music at Crossland where members meet as a class during the school day. The choir combined forces with the band throughout the school year to present a Christmas program, winter concert, and the Spring Music Festival. A performance was given in December at the Bethany Christian Church. The Concert Choir also coordinated a combined performance with the choirs and Madrigal groups from Suitland and Surratsville High Schools.

Three Concert Choir members with exceptional abilities were chosen this year as members of the State Chorus. Several members of the Concert Choir participated in the County Chorus Festival.

Orchestra

Orchestra Creates Carnival Of Concerts

Aspiring to one day play in the National Symphony, or just be able to play a string instrument for pure enjoyment, members of Crossland's orchestra found their own individual wants satisfied in a year of musical practice and performance. Under the instruction and direction of Mr. Michael Brescia, the nine instrumentalists met as a class daily to perfect their bowing technique and master new positions. Realizing their problem of limited instrumentation, Mr. Brescia and the string section, (comprised of seven violinists, a cellist and a bass player) endeavored to let quality make up for the deficiency in quantity.

The major performance of this musical group was the accompaniment of the Carnival cast in February. Afternoon and night rehearsals of the full orchestra preceded the successful musical production.

Cavalcade

Cavalcade Printed By Vocational Print Shop

Continuing with the format established last year, the Cavalcade retained the use of news print paper. An important first for the Cavalcade was the frequent use of the vocational print shop for issues. Also highlighting the 68-69 school year was the arrival of Mrs. Burgess, sponsor, whose guidance and supervision was vital to the success of the publication.

In addition to the monthly issues, Cavaliers enjoyed supplements featuring Homecoming, Christmas, and Easter. A special edition including an 8-page Senior supplement summarized great moments for the Class of 1969.

Articles ranged from feature stories and personal interviews to sports analyses and book reviews. The editing and assembly of the Cavalcade was primarily the responsibility of Carol Gregory, editor. Assisting her was a challenge for section editors and staff reporters, who were primarily Journalism I students. Increased patronage by local merchants aided the Cavalcade staff financially in telling Crossland's story.

Gauntlet

Individuality Stressed

In 1969 Yearbook

A group of twenty-five students, the 1969 Gauntlet Staff, was responsible for interpreting a year in the life of Crossland High School, in pictures and words. Working in and out of class, staff members sought to reproduce the concept of individualism as reflected in the CHS student body, setting no ideals for this trait. Using the journalistic innovations of standard interior margins and modern typography, they wrote copy, took pictures, and designed layouts, all in a effort to reflect a truthful image of the people and events of the 1968-69 school year.

Cavalettes

Pom-Pon Girls Stick With Candy Apple Sale

Spirited white boots and swinging pon-pons marching in uniform movements were characteristic of the Crossland Pom-Pon girls. Appearing at football games and pep rallies throughout the year, the Cavalettes encouraged school and team spirit. To achieve the perfection of their halftime activities, daily practice and hard work were necessary.

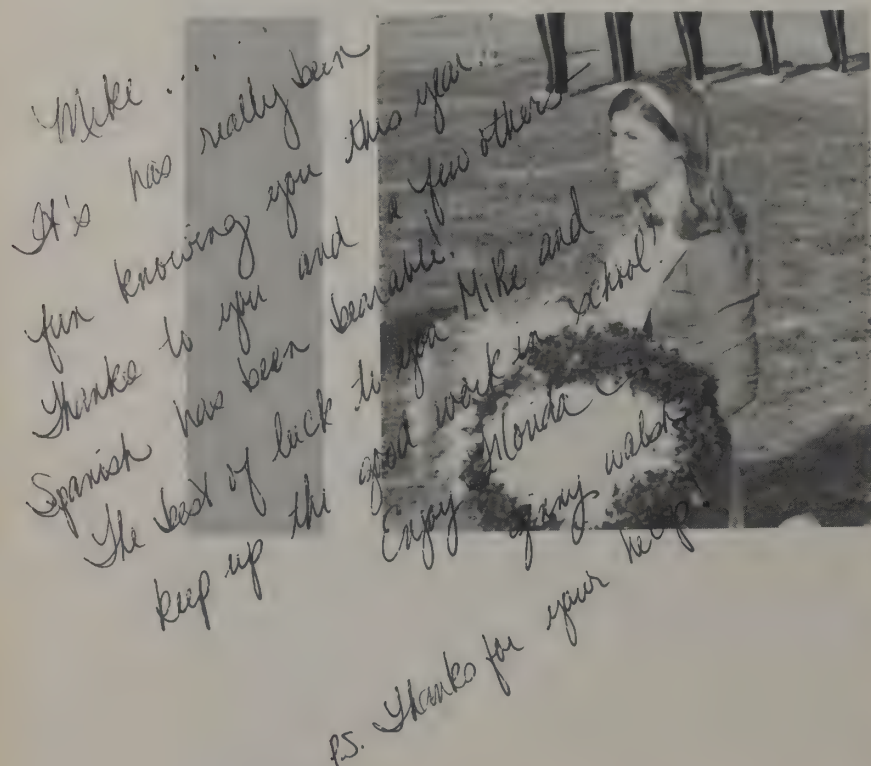

Bake sales during the summer and selling candy apples at the games provided the new uniforms for the Cavalettes' winter performances.

Varsity cheerleaders

Cheerleaders Incite Uproar Of Spirit

With bursts of spirit accompanied by peppy motions and happy faces, the varsity nine incited spirit at the games. The cheerleaders, the backbone of spirit at CHS, led the student body in cheering their teams to victory. To further increase the excitement before major games, they sponsored several pep rallies.

When they were not practicing after school, the cheerleaders were busy putting up posters to stir the spirit in the students before each game. The cheerleaders also held a bake sale at Iverson Mall during the summer which raised money for their bright gold sweaters.

J.V. Girl's Bake Sales Provide Uniforms

J.V. Cheerleaders added new uniforms of red and gold skirts with alternating red and gold sweaters to their performances. To finance their activities, the Junior Varsity squad held bake sales on weekends at Iverson Mall, and sold their goodies at many CHS functions.

Spirit-filled junior boosters supported the junior varsity sports activities throughout the year. To perfect their cheers, the determined J.V. Cheerleaders practiced after school twice a week. The girls' enthusiasm in achieving school spirit and their active support for the J.V. teams were combined to achieve their snappy motions and peppy cheers.

Twirlers Treat Fans With Cotton Candy

Twirling batons and bright new red uniforms aided in the completion of precise halftime shows throughout the year. To acquire the skill and coordination the Crossland Majorettes practiced many hard and long hours after school. With the excellent leadership of sponsor Mrs. McGrath, the majorettes were a vital part in promoting the great spirit of CHS.

A new treat for the avid football fans at Crossland was the sale of cotton candy by the active Twirlers.

During the winter months the majorettes twirled to the beat of a drum for basketball halftime shows.

Administration

IBM Computer System Aids Administration

This year marked the installation of an IBM computer system, which handled scheduling, records, report cards, and attendance. This was proven to be a more efficient method of handling these responsibilities, as it left the administration with more time for other varied duties and activities.

Notwithstanding an enrollment of 2300, Crossland's administration, under the direction of Mr. Hrezo, maintained a personal interest and a direct line of communication with students. An effort was made to treat each student as an individual, not a number, with an emphasis on preparation for the future. The problem of overcrowding was handled by erecting two temporary classrooms and by scheduling classes in every room, including available conference and storage rooms. Working together as a team, the six members of the administration strove to serve the interests of both students and teachers, stressing their main goal, the education of the individual.

Mr. Hrezo

Serving as the head of the complicated school organization is Mr. John V. Hrezo. As principal of a school with 2300 students, his administrative duties are difficult and numerous. In his role as educator, Mr. Hrezo has two main goals. His first concern is to further the education and growth of each individual student. In spite of the large enrollment, communication with the student body is emphasized. Mr. Hrezo's second goal is to maintain a personal interest in his faculty. The friendliness and cooperation of the teachers testify to this interest.

The supervision of the IBM computer system which was installed this year was Mr. Hrezo's newest and most challenging problem. Through the computer, schedules, report cards, and attendance forms were handled more effectively.

A sportsman, Mr. Hrezo likes to go hunting and fishing on weekends and holidays when his duties permit. He also enjoys spectator sports, and frequently attends Crossland's sports events.

Mr. Vest

Mr. Edward Vest is always busy participating in the activities of his favorite interest, Crossland. As vice principal, he is the school treasurer. However, his efforts for Crossland include not only handling school finances, but also communication between the administration and the students. A true Cavalier, Mr. Vest can always be found at school functions.

When his duties allow, Mr. Vest enjoys hunting and fishing.

Mr. Laird

Mr. Robert Laird, the vocational principal, is responsible for those students who have a trade career in mind. Students are trained for jobs which are in demand in today's world, with an emphasis on classroom experience. For example, the new IBM computer system incorporated into the data processing classes this year trained students for jobs in a practical field.

When away from the computers and hair dryers, Mr. Laird likes to rough it. He often goes camping and enjoys fishing and boating.

Mr. McDonald

When a teacher sends you to McDonald's, it's not for "a hamburger and a shake . . .," but a solution to your problem.

The role of psychologist, disciplinarian, and friend to Crossland's students belongs to Mr. William McDonald. As vice principal in charge of discipline, he is often in direct contact with the students. Although he is sometimes forced to use corrective measures, his goal is to stop problems before they start. Accordingly, he is aware of the desires and needs of the student body. Visiting classes and working with teachers and parents are among his other duties.

During his leisure time Mr. McDonald enjoys spectator sports, especially football and basketball. He is often seen at Crossland games, cheering on the Cavaliers.

Mr. Custis

Burning the night light is the principal of Crossland's active Evening High School, Mr. Irving Custis, who is also a day school vice principal.

For students who, for some reason, could not otherwise earn a high school diploma, the Evening High School provides classes four nights a week. Tailored to meet the needs of both adults and teenagers, course offerings parallel many of those offered to day school students. Always available to counsel ambitious students, Mr. Custis plays an important part in this valuable service to our community. Reflecting his interest, the night school is still growing.

An avid lover of entymology, Mr. Custis' favorite bug is the family Volkswagen, which affords an opportunity for relaxation for a very busy man.

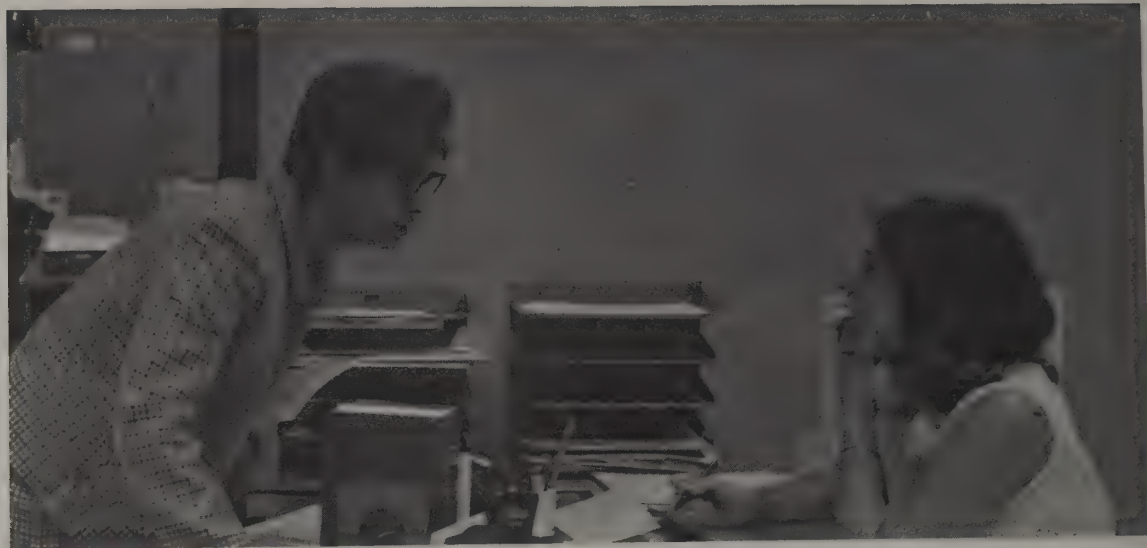

Mrs. Lake

"This must be Senior skip day or an outbreak of the plague . . .," moans Mrs. Lake as she looks over a daily attendance count.

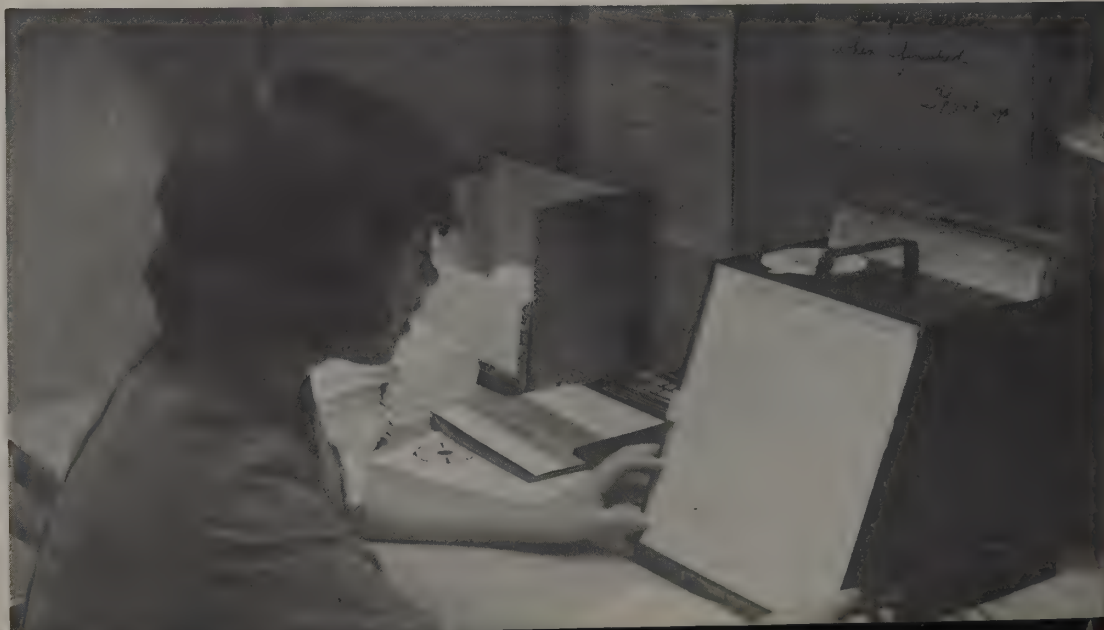

Another member of the administrative team. Mrs. Jane Lake, vice principal, is responsible for lockers, absences, and tardiness. The new computer system did much to speed up the problem of compiling and recording absences for Crossland's increased enrollment of 2300 students. Another of Mrs. Lake's duties was helping Mr. McDonald with his disciplinary actions. An understanding advisor, she is extremely interested in young people, striving to deal with them wisely and sympathetically.

Not surprisingly, Mrs. Lake's favorite pastime is visiting her grandchildren. Another of her interests is interior decorating, which she enjoys for fun and profit.

Guidance

View Deck Aids In College Selection

Implementing a new system of organization, the Guidance Department marked the start of a new program by assigning each student a permanent counselor for his stay at Crossland.

A new machine was also added to the department this year. The College View Deck enabled students to select the colleges and universities most suited to their needs.

The Guidance Department served the important purpose of helping each student solve any problems which arose. All of the counselors took a real interest in their students and were always available to discuss schedule changes, grades, and future plans.

Group guidance was also used for the first time in the area of college orientation. This program had a double advantage — it was easier for the counselors and it encouraged the student to speak out on the covered topics.

Library, reading

Video Tape Machine Benefits Cavaliers

Mr. Gary, Crossland's librarian, suggests that the library's name be changed to "The Instructional Materials Center." His reasoning is simple: With the addition of a video tape machine, more tape recorders, record players, records, film projectors, and film strips to the ever increasing number of books and periodicals, all forms of learning aids are now available to Crossland's students.

Because of the need for larger library facilities, the reference section expanded into the library classroom. Approximately 15,000 volumes are on the shelves at present, with 2,000 more on order. However, the rapid growth of Crossland's enrollment still challenges the adequacy of its library. Mr. Gary has expressed his dream that a school branch library be constructed somewhere near the school grounds, in order to more ably serve the students.

With the continued offering of a developmental reading program, the teacher and the students involved hoped to attain two objectives, correcting the comprehension problems of each individual and helping to increase reading speed and vocabulary.

English

New Course Focuses On World Literature

Homer, Twain, and Chaucer were familiar acquaintances in Sophomore, Junior, and Senior English classes. The scope of the English curriculum continued to range from grammar, to literature, to writing.

The English Department offered several new electives to those seniors interested in acquiring a proficiency in more advanced skills. Advanced Composition was designed to help students perfect expository writing skills, while Comparative Literature, a new course, was a concentration on world literature.

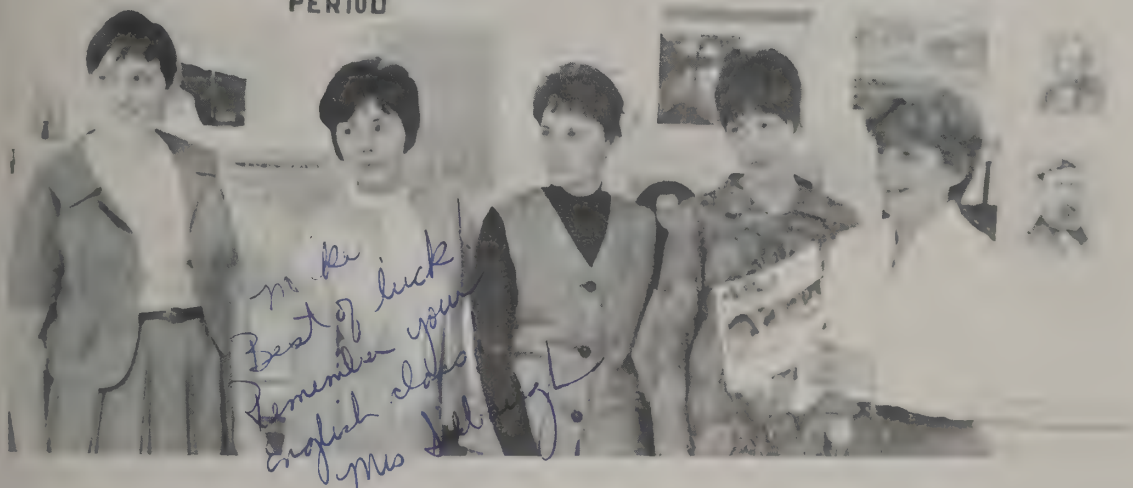

Sophomores encountered Greek Mythology, while juniors explored American Literature, and seniors excelled in English Literature.

New equipment, including a video tape unit, filmstrips, and records, played an important role in supplementing both the basic courses and the electives.

Language arts electives

Sophomores Learn Journalism Techniques

This year a two year journalism program enabled Cavaliers to learn the basic journalistic skills, perfect their creative and expository writing techniques, and learn the procedures for the assemblage of newspapers and other publications. This year also, Journalism I was offered to sophomores for the first time. Members of the Journalism I classes put their talents to work by writing for the school newspaper, while Journalism II students were responsible for the publication of the yearbook.

Other special courses offered in the Language Arts field were Drama and Speech. Because of the large interest in Speech, an additional class was formed this year. The two Speech classes were pioneers in the use of the new video tape machine for instructional purposes. Those seniors and juniors desiring to take a course relating to the theatre arts were able to do so in the Drama classes.

Mathematics

New Math Utilized In Standard Courses

The dynamic duo . . . Pythagoras and Archimedes . . . shall continue to solve mathematical mysteries, and so live on in the minds of students.

The advantages of the latest instructional methods in mathematics prepared many Cavaliers for continued education or for the business world. Fundamentals of algebra and geometry prepared underclassmen for further studies in the mathematics field. Second year algebra students could take either Algebra II or Algebra II/Trigonometry, depending on which course was more applicable to individual needs. For students desiring more advanced courses, Trigonometry Analysis, Elementary Analysis, Calculus/Analytic Geometry, and College Algebra/Probability were available. Providing extensive preparation for the non-college bound student were Vocational and Business Mathematics.

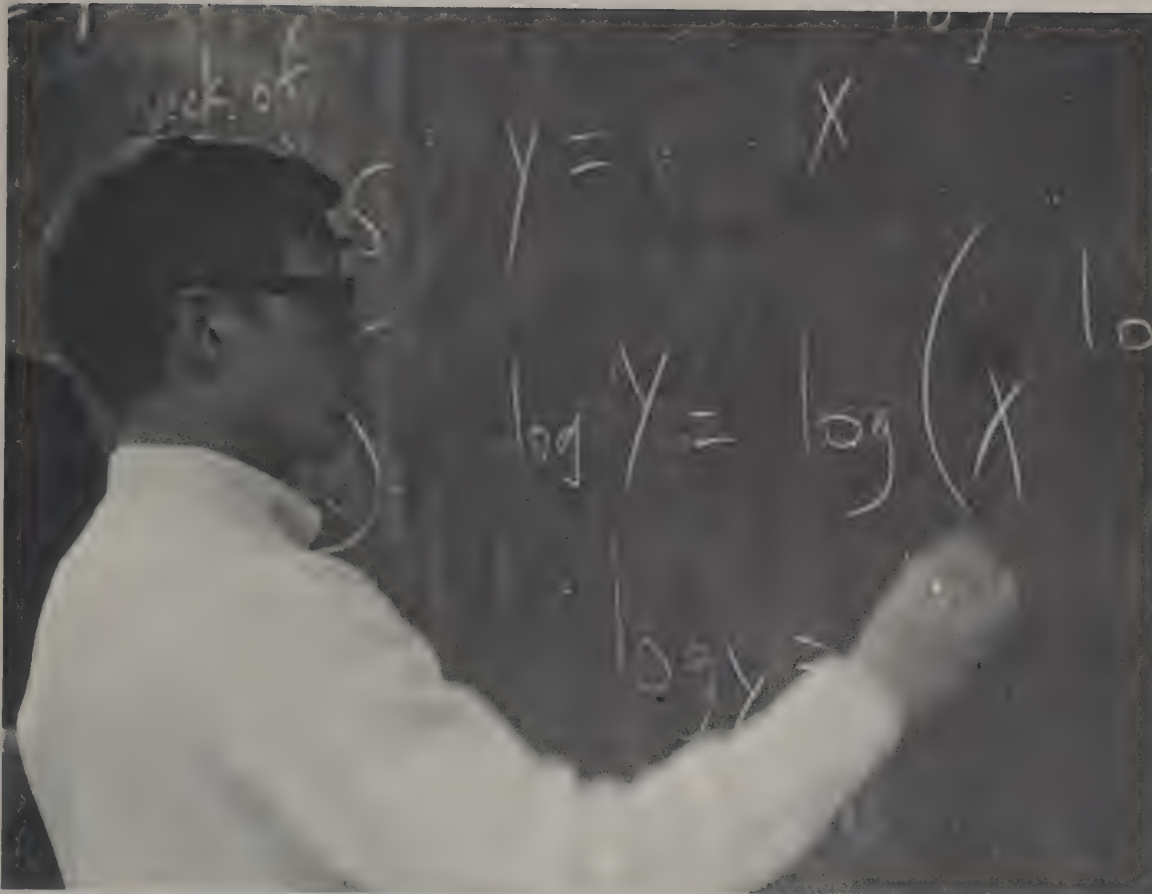

The Mathematics Department, one of the strongest departments in the school, continued to meet the needs of all Cavaliers with fine instruction, diversified course offerings, and extensive facilities.

Foreign languages

Students Study Foreign Cultures

Spanish with a southern drawl? The motto of the department, "Practice makes perfect," was still true.

Foreign languages were made more meaningful and useful through studies of the people who speak them.

While first year students learned the essentials of pronunciation and vocabulary, second and third year students were introduced to the literature and culture of the people who speak their language. Foreign literature was studied even more extensively by fourth year students.

The study of Latin emphasized its link with the Roman nation, as students became familiar with both mythology and grammar. Discussions of international events were common occurrences in French IV and Spanish IV classes. Advanced German students wrote articles for a newspaper written by German students all over the country. Excelling German IV students corresponded with the University of Denver.

Science

Future Scientists Utilize Laboratories

What happens when . . .

The proteins in a cell become too numerous?

You mix oxygen and hydrogen?

You cross positive and negative poles?

This year, in answering these and other questions, students in six different courses learned the scientific procedures of observation, study, and experimentation.

Biology, a required subject for all sophomores, introduced the secrets of plant and animal life. Advanced Biology, offered to upperclassmen, dealt with detailed aspects of heredity, photosynthesis, and ecology. Students who wished to learn about the structure and composition of matter took Chemistry or Chemistry A, a more advanced course with a greater amount of work done in the laboratory. The laws of nature and the properties of matter were the major topics taught in the course of Physics. Those students desiring to learn about many of the various aspects of science, but in less depth, were offered Physical Science.

Well-equipped laboratories, textbooks containing the most up-to-date scientific data, and a well-balanced curriculum all contributed to make the Science Department one of vital interest to the academic student.

Social studies

Students Participate In Mock Election

In accordance with the election year, the Social Studies Department sponsored the first mock election ever held at Crossland. With the number of days before Election Day rapidly diminishing, members of the POD classes could be seen putting up posters, discussing the campaign race, and having class discussions concerning the candidates and the issues. Days of campaigning were climaxed by the election of George C. Wallace as Crossland's choice for President.

Another innovation was a seminar consisting of eight lectures on "The Negro in America" held in Prince Georges County for selected juniors from various schools in the area. Five Cavaliers were chosen to attend the lectures given by Dr. Letitia Brown of Howard University.

The Westward Movement, industrialization, and the U.S. economic and political structure were just a few of the many topics covered by junior history classes.

Through World History, students were given a firm foundation for further studies in the social studies curriculum. Thousands of years of civilization provided the subject matter for the course.

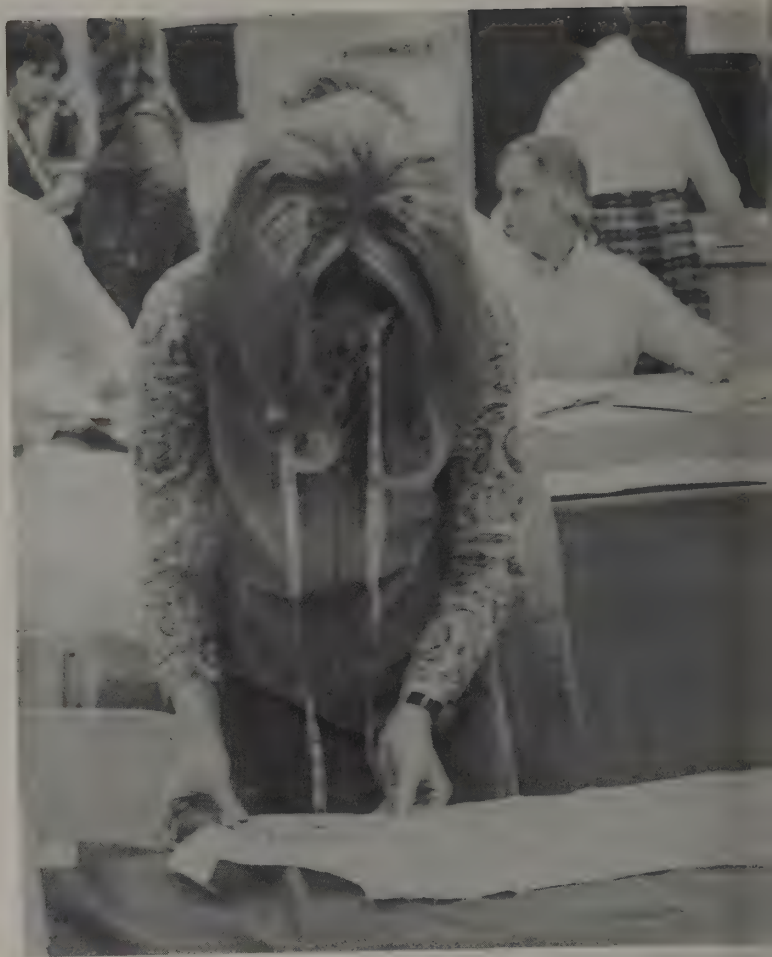

Home economics

Girls Gain Experience By Holding Pre-school

"London Bridge is Falling Down" in a high school? This was just one of the many unusual sounds pouring from the rooms of the home economics department as Home Economics IV students worked and played with pre-school children as part of a child care unit. Other units relating to all facets of the homemaker's role were offered to interested students.

Relying on the basic skills acquired in the first two years of home economics, students in Home Economics III experimented with such topics as the preparation of foreign dishes, advanced sewing techniques, and interior decoration. During their fourth year, the girls in home economics devoted a segment of the year to sewing a fashion of their choice, with the selections ranging from lounging pajamas to wedding gowns.

Field trips and visits from representatives of the fashion world, the make-up industry, and several foods companies supplemented the classroom instruction in homemaking.

Industrial arts

Classrooms Simulate Small Businesses

Sketching and letting chips fall where they may . . . Courses in varying levels of woodworking, metal shop, and mechanical drawing proved useful to industrial arts students. Working with experimentation and testing, group and unit projects, and in line production, students gained valuable experience.

Classrooms were sometimes set up to simulate a small business, with positions of responsibility delegated to enterprising students. Basic skills of craftsmanship were practiced in these situations.

Mechanical drawing proved invaluable to the students with an interest in engineering, architecture, or interior design. Students in the upper levels of the course actually designed houses and worked with many of the aspects of house construction. Cost analysis of a house and research on pertinent topics were also required. Neatness and accuracy were two ideals strived for by the pupils of the three industrial arts teachers.

Music

Crossland's Virtuosos Excel In Performance

Few people besides those in the five choruses can boast of having sung the Alma Mater one hundred eighty times in one year. Besides accomplishing this feat, Crossland's students with vocal talents practiced and performed a wide variety of classical and contemporary choral pieces. Under the direction of Mr. Warner, chorus students learned the basics of music theory and appreciation. Performing at various functions throughout the year were the members of the Concert Choir, the most advanced chorus.

Band members matched the accomplishments of their fellow music students by playing more choruses of the Fight Song than there are notes in the entire piece. Concert Band, Training Band, and Orchestra provided opportunities for students to study instrumental music. Mr. Brescia instructed students in the fundamentals of musicianship and instrument maintenance. With hopes of making the Concert Band the following year, Training Band members worked to perfect their playing techniques. Members of the Concert Band continued to gain greater performing experience while providing a musical service to the school. Selected members from both bands participated in the Marching Band, spending long hours in practice in order to promote pep and perform at the football games.

Both the Concert Band and the Concert Choir performed at Honor Society inductions and PTA meetings. A Christmas program and spring concert provided other opportunities for the students to demonstrate their musical talents to the school and the community.

Art

Individual Creativity Emphasized In Art

Emphasis on individual work and an informal atmosphere combined to allow creative Cavaliers to pursue their artistic endeavors. Art students were permitted to choose a project from the media of oil, clay, water color, ink, and many others. Demonstrating their talents in service to the school and community, students from the art classes made posters and signs publicizing both club and area events. Many of the set decorations for Crossland's drama productions were also the products of Crossland's Art Department.

Students with special interest and talent were given a further opportunity to display their accomplishments at Crossland's Annual Art Show. For a week, paintings, sketches, screen prints, and ink drawings decorated the halls of the school.

Business education

Underclassmen Elect New Business Courses

For the first time, the Business Department offered a full year of Shorthand I to nonbusiness students and Personal Typing to juniors. Bookkeeping II, which had never been offered before, was available to business students. Increased enrollment and a more varied business curriculum necessitated the addition of three new teachers to the Business Department faculty.

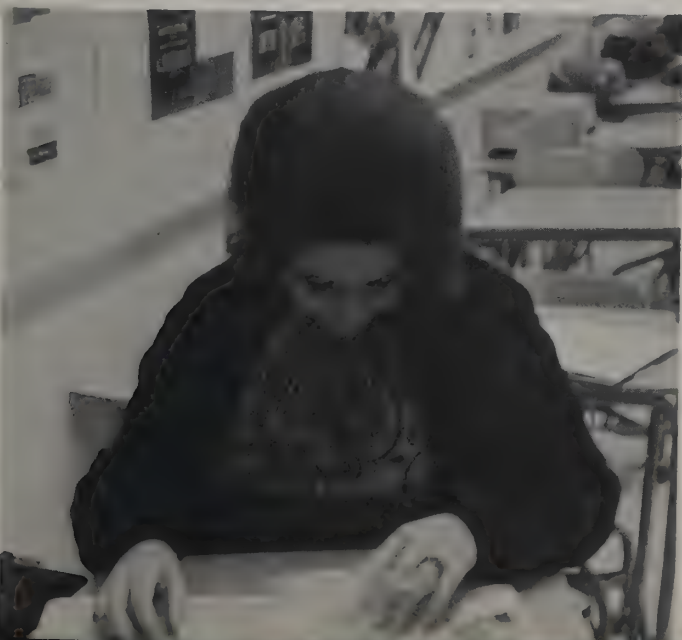

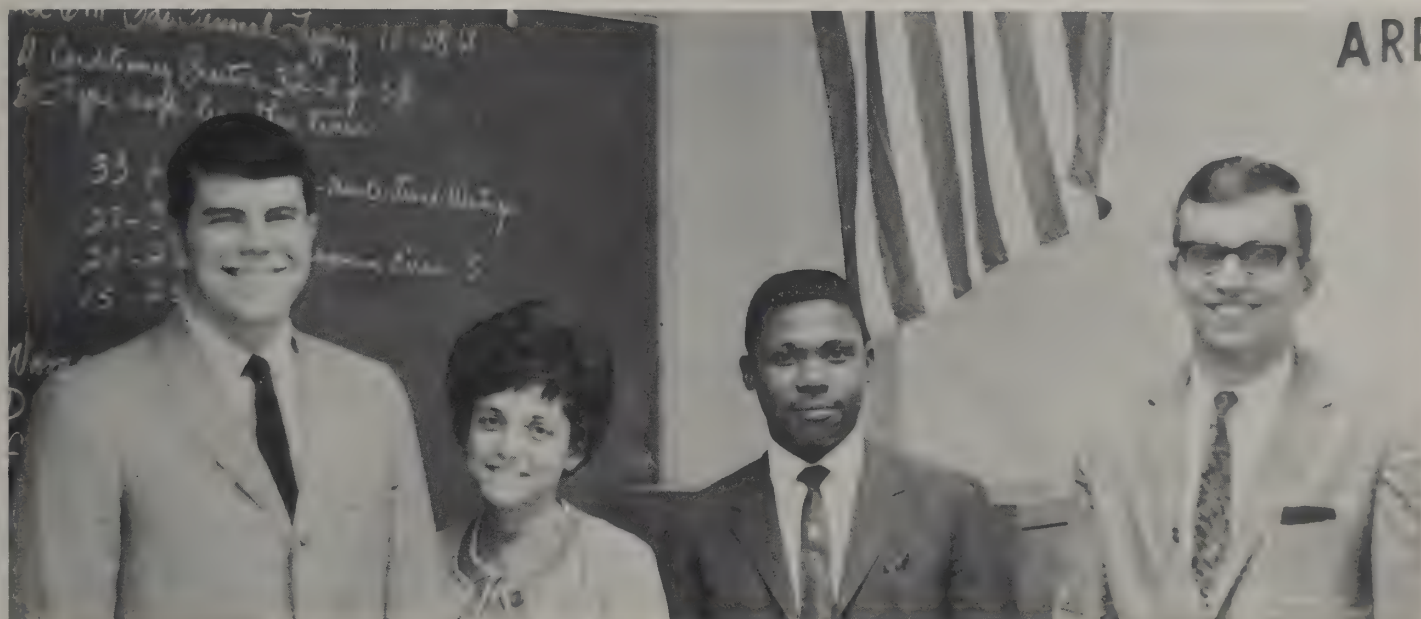

The extensive course offerings helped prepare many Crossland students for the competitive business world which awaits them. Concentration on business education was profitable for students whose plans for their futures involved either the business world or further education. The excellent facilities made the wide range of course offerings possible.

Vocational education

New Coordinator Aids Vocational Program

Already in its third year, the vocational department continued to provide a wide variety of course offerings, ranging from data processing and automotives to dressmaking and food preparation.

In order to make increased opportunities to join the industrial world available to the students, the role of vocational coordinator was created. Achieving better contact with the industrial world and the various professions was the chief concern of the coordinator.

For the first time much of the school clerical work, including the compiling of absentee lists and other data, was handled by computer. Teachers and members of the data processing classes were responsible for the smooth programming of the computer.

The vocational curriculum provided a complete course of study in each of the numerous fields open to the students. First year students usually followed a general course of studies in order to decide upon a specific course of study. Specialization in a particular area was climaxed in the last year of the three-year program when students were permitted to gain work experience in their field outside of school. Upon completion of the entire program, students graduated with a strong foundation of skills needed to help them advance in their trade or profession.

The students and teachers continued to perform many services vital to student life. Mr. Powell and his printing students were given veteran status in the art of printing dance tickets, Honor Society programs, and spirit fliers. Under the direction of Mr. Crowe, students in air conditioning and refrigeration produced more than enough ice cubes to chill all the cokes at school dances. Many of the stars of the 1968-1969 drama season spent several hours having their hair styled by the cosmetology students under the watchful eye of Mrs. Alder.

Physical education

Social Dancing Takes Steps In Boys' Gym

Individual achievement and team effort were both stressed in physical education, as the department strove to widen the athletic interests of students.

New activities for the boys were social dancing, tennis, archery, baseball, wrestling, and golf. Mr. Sipe, a new addition to the faculty, directed the intramurals program and coached wrestling.

Course offerings for girls were tennis, volleyball, basketball, track and field, gymnastics, golf, archery, softball, and modern dance. Mrs. Dora Wolfe, new to Crossland this year, was the sponsor of the Modern Dance Club.

The success of the augmented physical education program was certain when badminton became a lunchtime topic.

Driver education

Students Prepare For Hazards Of Driving

Realizing the great number of students already driving today and the great many who are becoming of age to drive, Crossland continued its extensive driver education program. Driver Education was administered in two programs: during the physical education classes and after school. Minimum student qualifications for the course were being fifteen years of age and at least a sophomore.

Consisting of three phases, classroom instruction, simulator practice, and behind-the-wheel training, the program's main goal was to make Crossland's students safe and knowledgeable drivers. To achieve this goal, a staff of four teachers instructed the prospective drivers in the skills of defensive driving and even the workings of a car engine. Besides thirty hours of classroom instruction, all students receiving certificates have experienced at least three hours at the wheel and nine hours observing other student drivers.

A recent Maryland law stipulated driver education as a mandatory requirement for those wishing to obtain a license at the age of sixteen. In compliance with the law, Crossland continued an effective program which enabled students to apply for a learner's permit upon turning sixteen.

Health staff

Cavaliers Seek Aid From Health Staff

Where could a Crossland student find the best supply of band aids in the school and a sympathetic ear besides? In the health room of course. This year the health staff, headed by Mrs. McElhose, had to lend their sympathetic ears to the aches and pains of 2300 Cavaliers. With the help of thirteen student assistants, Mrs. Cavas, the school nurse, also provided for the injured and ill students who made their way to the health room.

Another service performed by the health staff was the education of students on the dangers of smoking, drugs, and alcoholism through the use of bulletin boards, movies, and guest speakers.

Secretaries

Clerical Work Handled By Competent Staff

The large burden of clerical work was the responsibility of the school's eight secretaries. To perform their awesome tasks more than a knowledge of the typewriter keyboard was necessary. Main office secretaries Mrs. Petschke and Mrs. Gannon were called upon to serve as receptionists, typists, file clerks, and school guides. Serving as an assistant to Mrs. Lake and Mr. McDonald, Mrs. Holtz came in contact with many students. Mrs. Snead, the secretary of the vocational office, helped Mr. Laird by scheduling appointments and supervising much of the business handled through his office. College and career-bound Cavaliers found it reassuring to know that Mrs. Roys and Mrs. Cirigliano handled their SAT scores and work permits.

Special staffs

Food Service Improves With A La Carte Line

Meeting the demands of 2300 students and faculty members, this year the cafeteria staff offered a welcome innovation in lunchtime — an a la carte line where soups, sandwiches, salads, and desserts were sold. In the two lunch lines students could still purchase an entire meal and in a third line, milk and several flavors of ice cream were on sale. To provide all of these food services, Mrs. Schultz and her staff planned nourishing menus, ordered cafeteria supplies, and maintained kitchen facilities.

Working long hours after students and teachers had gone for the day, Mr. McClain and the nineteen members of his custodial staff performed the maintenance tasks necessary to keep Crossland's building facilities clean and serviceable for CHS students.

Sophomores

Sophomores Strive For Successful Year

Embarking upon the unknown can be a trying and difficult experience for some. Likewise, the progression to high school can also be difficult. However, the Sophomore Class took the transition in stride. Being faced with the fast pace of Crossland, the class of '71 immediately made plans for an active year. First on the agenda was the election of class officers. With the assistance and support of Vikki Young, vice president, Lisa Muro, secretary, and Kathy Ellis, treasurer, Rod Smart, the newly elected president, guided sophomores in carrying out their class activities. Mr. Wheatley agreed to back the class and officers.

Bake sales held throughout the year provided the funds necessary for the various projects sponsored by the Sophomore Class. Many weeks of planning and preparation went into the sophomores major event, sponsoring the annual Valentine Dance. Early planning proved to be worthwhile as the dance was acclaimed a success by all who attended.

Active in both the social and academic phases of this year's school life, the sophomores look forward to an even more productive year as juniors.

Class Of '70 Charts Its Future

A never ending supply of spirit combined with continual effort proved to be the winning formula for the Class of '70. Numbering over seven-hundred, the junior class planned a calendar of events which included activities of all types, ranging from football games to bake sales. Realizing the smooth functioning of a class is largely dependent upon the quality of its leadership, juniors elected Mona Jaffe, president; Jeff Means, vice president; Diane Stokes, secretary; and John Clithero, treasurer; to execute their plans.

If homecoming activities could be considered a reliable measure of success, the Class of '70 was on its way for a very favorable year. The many days and nights spent by spirited juniors in building the class float proved to be worthwhile as the junior float was awarded first prize in the class competition. Another group bearing the junior banner, the Powder Puff team, was organized in November. After long hours of practice under the coaching of junior lettermen, the Powder Puff game became a reality with the final score a tie, 0-0. Co-sponsoring the Miss Crossland Pageant with the senior class, a psychedelic dance, and bake sales were a few of the various activities sponsored by the Class of '70 under the direction of the class sponsor, Mr. Mirman. The year was climaxed by the Junior Prom which gave the finishing touch to a memorable year.

History Students Attend Seminars

Five students were selected by the Social Studies Department to attend seminars on Afro-American culture and social heritage. Pat Payne, Steve Ritchey, Eddy Beach, Bill Feeney, and Eric Ransick attended the seminars conducted at Crossland and Parkdale High Schools. Entitled "The Negro in American History," the seminars were conducted by Dr. Letitia Brown of Howard University.

These seminars, conducted at a college level, presented the historical contributions of the Negro race to contemporary society. Each of Crossland's selected students gave lectures to the different history classes as the seminars progressed.

SENIORS

The Class of 1969:

Another class following in the tradition
Of Crossland Seniors

Experimenting with new ideas and activities

As they strive to make 1969 —

A special year — A year of champions.

Assuming the yoke of school leadership

In all walks of Crossland life.

Each Senior struggling to make

The right decision: College or Career?

Seeking advice from those

Who have helped him in the past,

Even as he gives guidance to underclassmen.

Sharing the joys of being on top

With friends and fellow seniors;

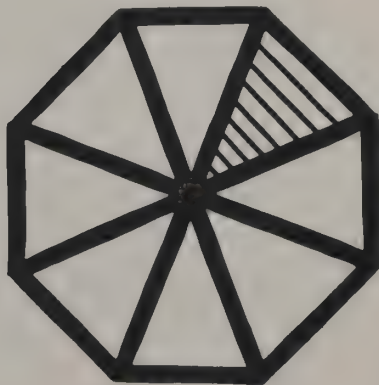

And learning to appreciate the security

Of high school as they prepare to enter

A new realm of experience.

Facing Graduation — the culmination of Individual endeavors and class efforts.

Class Of '69 Leaves

New Accomplishments

The challenge of a new experience is met with both apprehension and enthusiasm. With this attitude, The Class of 1969 culminated their years at Crossland and pursued their individual interests.

Laden with activities of all types, ranging from the Victory Dance to co-sponsoring the Miss Crossland Pageant, the year proved to be successful for the seniors. A general class meeting held in October helped to formulate a calendar of events. One of three such class assemblies of the year, it gave all class members a better understanding of the functioning of the class. Dances and bake sales provided the funds needed for various class projects. January was highlighted by the Masquerade Ball, which was acclaimed as one of the most interesting dances of the year.

Interspersed with these many events were the traditional senior activities, including ordering pictures, buying senior keys, and selecting the gift to the school.

Providing capable leadership for the Class of 1969 were Bob Bosler, President; Diana Tabler, Vice-President; Rick Bailey, Vice-President; Donna Patton, Secretary; and Connie Bavely, Treasurer. Guiding the Class of 1969 for three years has been the responsibility of Mrs. Fisher, class sponsor.

Upperclassmen Mix Work With Pleasure

Whether toiling over a research paper or marching during a halftime show, the members of this year's Senior class did everything in the spirit of 1969. Realizing that this was his twelfth and final year, each senior relished the moments of senior pleasure: cheering on victories, celebrating at Shoppes afterwards, and attending his own senior prom; as he readied himself academically and socially to meet the responsibilities he would face after graduation. Just as there were moments of pleasure, each senior had his own moments of fulfillment that he as an individual could treasure, such as receiving his college acceptance or job acknowledgement. This final year came to a close as 657 members of the Class of '69 left Cole Field House on the morning of June 17, 1969, each member an individual.

After two years of fund-raising and family selection carried on by the student government and the Crossland chapter of the American Field Service, the dream of the Crossland students, faculty, and parents to have a foreign exchange student was fulfilled with the arrival of Hajime Izawa on August 4. Leaving his parents, grandmother, and a younger brother and sister in his home in Fujioka, Japan, Hajime was welcomed into the Wurzbacher family and promptly given the American name, Jimmy. Along with Mr. and Mrs. George Wurzbacher, Eric, a senior at Crossland and Lisa, a freshman, introduced Jimmy to American teen-age customs while older brother Marc, gave him an impression of college life.

September 3, Jimmy experienced what was to become a typical school day during his year at Crossland. Riding the bus, eating in the school cafeteria, and attending classes conducted in English were just a few of the new situations Jimmy was confronted with. His academic schedule included English IV, Speech, Calculus, College Algebra/Probability, U.S. History, and Personal Typing. Bringing with him a friendly manner and eagerness to learn on the same terms as his fellow classmates, Jimmy was a welcome member in all of his classes.

Displaying a true Cavalier spirit, Jimmy attended his first football game and was an avid fan for the rest of the season. Dances, concerts, and AFS activities filled up Jimmy's social calendar. When he was not studying or learning about American life first-hand, Jimmy passed the time with his Japanese and American hobbies of stamp collecting and reading.

When he leaves this June, Jimmy will return to Japan to receive his diploma from Tagasaki High School in hopes of attending Tokyo University and eventually becoming a diplomat.

The 1969 GAUNTLET

*The different one among many of the same.
All our own.
This reflection of our
Cavalier life
Was made possible
Through the help and support
Of our many generous patrons.
Without whose support
The GAUNTLET
Would have suffered
From small and
Pictureless sections.
The school as a whole
Not just certain
Individuals
Will benefit from
The Patrons.
We would like to extend
Our deepest gratitude to them.*

The finest Ford dealer in the Metropolitan area, SHEEHY FORD, is located at the intersection of Auth Road and Old Branch Avenue in Marlow Heights, Maryland. SHEEHY FORD has been in service to the area for almost two years. In these two years they have built up the finest reputation for Sales, Service, and Repairs.

For the best selection of Ford cars, station wagons, and trucks, see the gentlemen at SHEEHY FORD. They will prove to you that "Ford has a Better Idea." For prices and information call 423-4950.

Remember — for the best buy on any car, look to SHEEHY.

Juniors and seniors alike anxiously awaited the welcomed visits from Tom O'Keefe, representative of Herff Jones Company, manufacturer of the Crossland ring. As is tradition, rings were available this year with a red stone, whether smooth or faceted. Contact Mr. O'Keefe at 780-2545.

Dave pyles motors

Break Away — Go Wide Trackin'

Although just starting in the Pontiac business, Dave PYLES has managed to corner the market for fine cars in this area. Located at 4722 St. Barnabas Road, Marlow Heights, DAVE PYLES MOTORS caters to the every whim of the customer. With the largest selection of Pontiacs, Tempests, Firebirds, and the other fine cars made by the Pontiac Division of General Motors, this immense and incomparable selection stands out as the most elite on the East Coast; the extraordinary is the normal.

Student Government

Leads CHS Activities

Developed by the students of Crossland in an effort to provide a solid and broad base for the effective planning of school projects and to promote a mature sense of citizenship in each student, the Student Government is not so much an organization as it is a system of organization for student self-government in the framework of Crossland Senior High School.

There are three distinct areas of responsibilities. The first is the legislative body whose purpose is to represent the student body. The legislature is composed of two houses — the Senate and the House of Representatives. Eight students from each class are elected annually to the Senate; representatives to the House are elected twice a year from each homeroom.

The second area of student responsibility is the executive department of the Student Government. This branch is directed by the elected President and Vice President of the Student Government. Its purpose is to direct the entire governmental organization and to carry out the decisions of the legislature.

The third branch of the system is the Coordinating Council, whose purpose it is to coordinate the activities of the clubs of the school. Its members are the representatives of the school clubs.

Crossland Sr. High School has a mature and challenging system of student self-government. The most necessary factors to its effectiveness are a sincere interest for it by each student and competent leadership of it by each leader.

Your house is your castle — be sure you treat it as one. Don't neglect worn carpet, or the "thrown together" room any longer. Replace the worn, fix up the house, and be proud to have the gang over. But, before you start, look to experience and quality at JOE MONA'S VILLAGE CARPETS AND INTERIORS. They're located at 6504 Old Branch Avenue, one block east of intersection Route 5 and Allentown. ## Md. Book Exchange Fills Student's Needs

While driving down Baltimore Avenue near the South Gate of the University of Maryland in College Park, you are bound to notice the MARYLAND BOOK EXCHANGE. Located in the Seventy-Five Hundred Block of Baltimore Avenue, the book exchange serves not only the University of Maryland, but all of the surrounding high schools in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

Students are attracted not only to the large selection of new and used college text books the store stocks, but also to the shelves and shelves of paperback books, over 15,000 titles in all.

In another part of the store students enter a veritable paradise of popular, classical, and jazz music. The MARYLAND BOOK EXCHANGE boasts of the area's largest and most varied selections of Hi-Fi and stereo recordings. Anything from the "Finale From the Fifth Symphony" by Shostakovich to "The Magical Mystery Tour" by the Beatles, the MARYLAND BOOK EXCHANGE has it.

For information on texts, records, or the store's huge selection of sweatshirts, souvenirs and other spirit items call Mr. Gnat at WA 7-2510.

In Appreciation

Gauntlet Staff Thanks Most Valuable Member

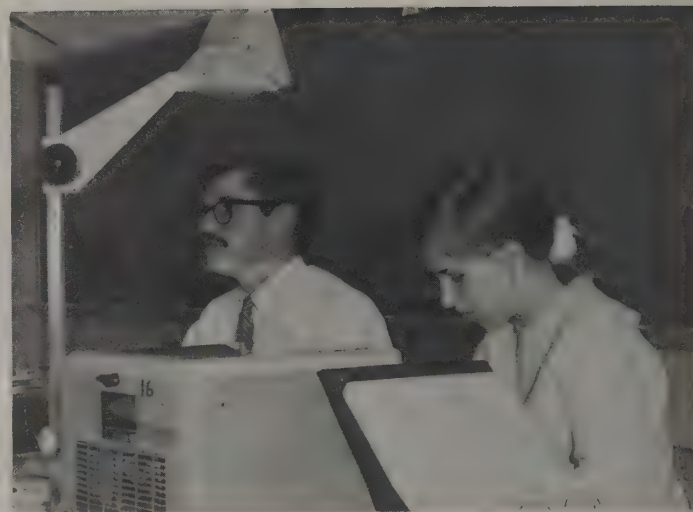

Thanks is not enough . . .

To express all of our feelings and appreciation to Gauntlet advisor Mr. Charles Craft. This year, as in his past three years as yearbook advisor, Mr. Craft gave of his wisdom, time, and understanding to help us print the 1969 story of CHS in pictures and words. The long hours at night and on weekends he spent giving advice and helping us "not to worry" will long be remembered by us as times of frustration lightened by the concern of an individual whose smile and knowledge always came through under deadline pressure.

Next year he takes on the job of Cavalcade advisor after four successful years in photo-journalism. The National Scholastic Press Association gave the 1966 Gauntlet (Mr. Crafts first CHS, yearbook) a first-class rating and the '67 and '68 Gauntlets were also rated first class books.

But, more important to us than his achievements as a journalist is the influence he's had on us as an individual, a man who gave so much and asked so little.

Thanks Mr. C.

Mr. Craft works wonders with the cropper. Staff members and his students with problems invariably found their way to Room 128.

1969 Gauntlet Staff Salutes Patrons, Pedagogues, Parents & Photographers

Thanks to Mr. David Meyers for his photographic advice and for keeping the darkroom in working order.

Thanks to Mr. Edward Vest for assisting us in the business end of the book.

Thanks to Mr. John Whittington for letting us peck away in peace on his typewriters in first period.

Thanks to Mr. Wheatley for identifying many unknown sophomore faces and not minding when we delayed Mr. Craft past car-pool departure time.

Thanks to our parents for all of their patience during times of staff crisis, especially in the wee hours of the morning right before deadlines.

Thanks to McIntyre studios for their cooperation and excellent portraits and candids.

Thanks to the Guidance for matching names with faces when we could not.

Thanks to the faculty for understanding our technical difficulties and for repeated sittings for group pictures.

Thanks also to our teachers who patiently excused us from classes for emergency work.

Thanks to all of our patrons and those who contributed their efforts to the 1969 Gauntlet.

The Individual:
 Contributing fearless creativity,
 Fighting conformity with Independence,
 Alone, even in a crowd.
 Aware of how much more
 there is to life
 with a questioning mind.
 Individuals, the backbone
 of the group, the school;
 Leading, not following;
 To commence, rather than copy;
 Inventing instead of imitating.
 Although some depart each year,
 going into the world,
 Others will remain.

Mike - I love the thought given on this page so I hope you don't mind... this year has gone by fast fast hasn't it? Had lots of fun in Geometry! Oh well
C'est la Vie
Good luck
in "10"
Senior
class of '71 Eules

Mike.

I'll try to fill up this page, but I usually run out of things to say. Unfortunately I didn't get to know you all as good as I had wanted to, but maybe there is still time.

Nothing turned out the way I wanted it to because of 8 people that we won't mention. Or maybe they helped, I really don't know.

Don't ever forget the "great" times we had in Nistoy. All the tests I failed!

Oh well, see I told ya I'd probably run out of things to say and I did.

Loads of Luck in the Coming Year.

Mike, Will its go to been about now that 10 years have you. It has been really fun
since in our "no-shirts"
days in Hawaii and in Japan and in Annapolis.
Bay we really have been through a good friend. Please thanks for forget each other with coming to the years we be the same. We may be your father. I hope that Florida. I hope you can from there. Chicago is so I let's please get alot on face. Good luck to future.

Hey Mike -
 "Don't not" be long of class - we're out of
 YATM BOOKS

CAN'T WAIT - Been fun
 standing the hardships in chemistry with you there's geometry too.
 - then a nice guy, stay that you're a story my friend too way + ? Good luck in all
 - OKAY! (I hope you get you do. (I hope you get teachers too.)

Mike
 what can I say that
 I haven't already been said?
 I won't be happy to have all our fantastic arguments and arguments in chem class around the Apples! Love!

To Mike.
 The most pesky, irritating,
 annoying, pushy, teasing, lovable idiot I have ever known must be you. I hope you have the best of everything in the years to come.

Mike,

To a really sweet guy that
I've enjoyed knowing this year!
Especially in English class! Hope to see you somewhere next year!
Maybe in English again! Lot's of luck!

Our big ship class.
Well Mrs. McSorley did what she could, which wasn't very much.
Well have fun this
